FUNERAL CEREMONIES.

Paris, June 7.—The funeral ceremonies over the five clerical victims of the Commune was grandly arranged. The central object in the scene was the gorgeous catafalque containing the remains of the Archbishop surrounded by minor structures bearing the corpses of Duquerry, the Cure of Madelaine Saret, and the Grand Vicar of the diocese of Brecourt and Sebastian. The coffin of the Archbishop was covered with a pall of black velvet embroidered and enriched with a massive silver cross. Thousands of tapers were burning in the silver candelbra and incense in the vessels, which were also of silver. The floor was covered with black cloth and the pulpit was covered with black cloth bespangled with silver stars. Transepts a hundred and fifty feet wide appeared like huge recesses; black drapery covered every statue except those of the Virgin and child and St. Denis, the first Bishop of Paris. In the midst of all were the black and charred remains of the Bishop's chair and his throne, also half burned, from which the Communists endeavored to burn the Cathedral. It was and will be left intact, as a memento of the crime. Along the route of the procession the windows and streets were crammed with spectators. Bells were tolling, and a salute of guns was fired. A strong force of regulars, with reversed arms and muffled drums, were in procession. The funeral car of the Archbishop was covered with silver, and drawn by six horses. Another beautiful car, containing the remains of Queret, followed. The procession reached the cathedral at eleven o'clock. Inside the church was crowded with members of the Assembly, priests, Sisters of Charity. At eleven o'clock the priests and deputies, with military music, left the chancels, and proceeded to the great doors, which were draped in black, to meet the coffin. Chanting then commenced, and outside was heard the beating of drums, the pealing of trumpets and the roaring of cannon. At the elevation of the Host the firing was repeated. The altar was magnificently draped, and the service was long and solemn. McMahon, Drusey, Vinoy, L'Admirault and Favre were present.

Versailles, June 8.—In the Assembly to-day the debate on the removal of the political disabilities of the Orleans Princes, adjourned from Monday, was resumed. The Committee reported in favor of abolishing the law of proscription, when Thiers rose and said that he had opposed an abrogation of the law, because such action would be dangerous. He only assented to the view of the common Princes engaging not to sit in Assembly, and not to enter into any intrigue against the Republic. The safety of the Republic has been confided to him, and he should not betray the trust. The Assembly then voted to abrogate the law of proscription by 484 yeas to 103 nays, and proceeded to declare valid the election of the Duke d'Aumale and Prince De Joinville to seats in the Assembly by a vote of 448 to 113.

CONCORD, N. H.

The Gubernatorial Question.

Concord, June 8.—Both parties have held a caucus this morning, and it is not probable the question who is to be Governor will be reached to-day. It is understood that Mr Weston declines to visit the city until the question is settled.

The House met promptly at 10 o'clock. The House was cleared of all but members who then proceeded to draw seats. This was about half proceeded with when it was discovered that many members had been furnished in duplicate by the printers. The drawing was declared void. Bingham declared the question postponed until to-morrow at 11 o'clock. Wadleigh offered an amendment to postpone till 3 o'clock this afternoon. On this a discussion took place which was characterized by strict party feeling. Bingham's amendment was rejected. Randall moved to lay the motion of Bingham on the table and urged the right of ballot for the clerk, which the Democrats persistently refused, fearing shaky members. The motion was defeated. Adjourned till 3 o'clock.

CLEVELAND.

Railroad Accident.

Cleveland, June 8.—A brakeman named Jones, employed on the freight train of the Lake Shore Railroad, accidently fell early this morning between the cars, while the train was moving between Kingsville and Madison. He fell upon the track and the remainder of the train ran over his legs, tearing them off and mangling his body. While lying on the track, he heard a passenger train approaching. Expecting he would not be seen, and that the cars would run over him, he drew a knife from his pocket, opened the blade and stabbed himself twenty-two times about the breast, and left arm. He had tried to penetrate his heart and produce death sooner, but was too week to guide his blow. The engineer of the train saw him in time to stop the cars. He was taken to Madison, where he died soon after.

NEW YORK.

General Sherman Explains—No Appeal Made—Found Dead—A Judge Arrested—Masonic News—Thieving Coburn—Mutiny.

New York, June 8, 1871.

GENERAL SHERMAN EXPLAINS.

A letter from General Sherman, dated Fort Snell, Comanche Reservation, May 25, addressed to an editor of a New York paper, says: I have been skirting the Texas frontier for the past month, and here for the first time I meet files of the Eastern papers, by which I see that quite an unnecessary muss has been raised by the purported speech made by me at the supper of the Union League Club of New Orleans on the night preceding my departure from that city. Whoever reported that as spoken by me committed a breach of propriety, for I was assured by the President of the Society that no reporters were present, and that, whatever was said would be sacred, and confined to the persons present. Now, as to politics, I think all my personal friends know my deep-seated antipathy to the subject. Yet, as you seem not to understand me, I hereby state—and mean all I say—that I never have been, and never will be, a candidate for President; that if nominated by either party, I should peremptorily decline; and even if unanimously elected, I should decline to serve.

INTERESTING MASONIC NEWS.

At a meeting of the Grand Lodge of the masons of New York to-day a recommendation was adopted that the Grand Master appoint a Committee to revise the Constitution and submit a report to the Lodges of the State on or before March next. The Grand Lecturer chosen is R. W. George H. Raymond, New York. The present communication will be closed to-morrow.

NO APPEAL MADE.

The World's Washington special says; After all that has been said not an appeal has been made in the New York Central Railroad case from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to the Secretary of the Treasury. Parties in the interest of the railroad company have endeavored to get Mr. Boutwell to interfere, but he has taken no action, even to the extent of sending to General Pleasanton for a single paper in the case.

The Grand Lodge of Masons assembled this afternoon. The following Grand Officers were elected for the ensuing year: Jno. H. Anthon, Most Worshipful Grand Master; Christopher G. Frox, Deputy Grand Master; R. W. Edmunds, L. J. Judson, Senior Grand Warden; R. W. Jas. W. Heusted, Junior Grand Warden.

The camera which he used is still in existence, and it was intended to have it on exhibition at this time, but this intention could not be carried out. On motion it was agreed that the Convention give three hearty cheers next Saturday morning at the hour of the unveiling of the Morse Monument in New York, and that Prof. Morse be advised by telegraph of the fact at the time.

In the Homeopathian Convention to-day Dr. Geo. F. The State has already given $70,000 towards its erection, ground has been broken and the Asylum will within a year be in a position to receive patients. It only remains for Homeopathic Physicians to contribute their share toward the Asylum. The charter provides that the State of New York shall give $150,000 provided the Homeopathic Physicians raise a like sum.

BIGAMOUS BOWEN.

Washington, June 8, 1871.

REVENUE CASE DECIDED.

Secretary Boutwell, a few months ago, referred to Attorney General Akerman the question whether the State of Massachusetts is entitled to a return of internal revenue to be paid on dividends accruing to the State as stockholder in the Boston and Albany Railroad. The Attorney General has just submitted to the Secretary his opinion in the case. He states that he does not understand the law to compel a Commissioner to refund taxes which he may judge to have been erroneously collected; he is authorized but not obliged to refund. But representing a Government that abhors injustice, the Commissioner should refund in all cases of illegal collections, except where there is an apparent fault of the tax payer, or where his acquiescence in them constitute a sufficient circumstance to credit the claims. Whether such a circumstance exists in this case is for the consideration of the Commissioner. The Attorney General, after reviewing the action of several of his predecessors in cases of a similar nature to the one before him, says that the conclusion is reached that the dividends on the stock were not subjected to the tax, and informs the Secretary that he should assume that this tax was not legally collected May 28th, a few days preceding.

INDIAN MATTERS.

General Sherman was at Fort Sill, Indian Territory, and he gives an account of the capture of some of the Indians engaged in the late raid into Texas, in which seven men were killed and a corn train plundered: "On Saturday, May 27th, a large party of Indians came in for their usual rations, and Santanta, a notoriously bad Indian, not only admitted to Indian Agent Tantum that he headed the raid into Texas, but boasted of it. Mr. Jones brought them to Gen. Sherman, at Gen. Grierson's headquarters, where Santanta again made the same admissions, varying somewhat in the story. He began to see that the deed was not one to be proud of. General Sherman told Tantum to say whether Santanta should be arrested on the spot, and Tantum answered that he desired and requested the arrest to be made. Accordingly, after a little maneuvering to catch all those present who were engaged in the affair, Santanta, Santauk, and Big Tree, were arrested and are in close confinement. They will be carefully guarded and turned over to General McKensie to be taken back to Texas and tried by civil authority. The Indians begged to be shot on the spot, fearing that they would be lynched or mobbed, which they dreaded terribly; that will be prevented in any event. Sherman further demanded of the Kiwas the forty-one mules captured from some train; and while the consideration of this proposition was going on, Lion Wolf made another demonstration, which almost resulted in a fight. One Indian was killed. Several shots were fired and the Indian camps stampeded. General Sherman writes that in all these cases the Indian agent has been considered and his wishes have been the rule of conduct. He lays great stress on the necessity for trial and punishment of the three who are arrested, and says that if they go to their tribe free, no agency will be safe. He favors a strictly legal course, which the Indians dread far more than the shorter verdict of the bullet.

C. C. BOWEN,

recently convicted of bigamy in the Criminal Court of this district, was before Judge Olin to-day, who stated that he had thought of suspending sentence until after the bill of exceptions was acted on by the Court in the general term; but the District Attorney now, he understood, questioned the power of this Court to suspend a sentence, and he would like to hear an argument on that point, and therefore set Monday next to hear the counsel on the question.

APPOINTMENTS.

The President has made the following appointments, and has forwarded commissions here for record: Hiram A. Parker, Registrar of the Land Office, Beatrice, Nebraska; Henry M. Lewis, Collector, and Henry Harden, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Second and Third districts, Wisconsin.

WORK RESUMED.

The contractors have resumed work to-day in the various parts of Washington. No interference with the laborers was attempted by the strikers. A strong police force has been held in reserve near where the work is progressing.

TITUSVILLE.

Crude Oil Market.

Titusville, June 8.—Courier reports the petroleum market for Thursday 8th, as follows: Sales, Petrolum Centre, 1,000 bbls; regardless, 525; do, 4,000; do, 44; gravity 535. Tarr Farm, 760; do regardless, 520; Rouseville, 250; do, 45; gravity, 536; Rouseville, 250; do, 47; gravity, 525; Rouseville, 500; do, 45½; gravity 520; Rouseville, 1,000, do. 47; gravity 530; Rouseville, 500; do, 47; gravity, 530; Lower Road, 2,000 bbls gravity at $5.35, and 1,500 bbls S. O. June at $5.25; Oil City, 500 bbls 45½ gravity at $5, and 1,000 bbls 47 gravity at $5.50. The market is again quiet, but continues firm. The efforts of contending parties during a week past have apparently exhausted their energies, and a stop to regain breath has been taken. The races have besides attracted considerable attention; and many active operators were missed from their accustomed haunts. On the Upper Road we learned of no transactions, and the feeling seems to have undergone no particular change since yesterday. The holders demanded $5.00, and but for a fire that attracted everybody's attention this evening, some transactions would likely have been made at that figure. On the Lower Road there was some activity, with sales at yesterday's prices. At Oil City some oil changed hands at $5,00. The market closed quiet.

ST. LOUIS.

Banks Swindled.

St. Louis, June 8.—On Monday last, a man purchased at the Manufacturer's Savings Bank of this City, two drafts on New York, one in favor of E. King for ten dollars, one in favor of G. W. Mead for ten dollars and fifty cents. The party purchasing them afterwards erased the name of the parties in whose favor they were drawn and, the amount, and got them cashed for ten thousand and five thousand respectively, to the order of J. W. Allen, by the People's Savings Bank of Chillicothe. Two persons seem to have been engaged in the swindle, as the Hamilton Bank is also a loser for eleven thousand dollars. One of the scoundrels has been arrested at Chillicothe and the detectives are on the track of his confederate.

NEW ORLEANS.

The Flood.

New Orleans, June 8.—There was a southeast wind with rain on Lake Ponchartrain last evening. The water in the city has fallen two inches in the last twenty-four hours, and is now three inches below high water mark. The neutral ground on the canal is clear of water nearly to Claiborne street. Besides the police and charity boats, there are hundreds of small craft engaged in passenger traffic. Five thousand loaves of bread and other articles in proportion are distributed daily. A disagreeable odor arises all along the border of the overflowed district from stagnant water, decaying vegetable and animal matter.

LINCOLN CLUB ROOMS.

Pleasant Occasion—Music and Eloquence—The Club Organized and the Rooms Dedicated.

The formal opening of the Lincoln club rooms took place last evening and was a successful affair. The attendance of Republicans was very large, nearly every ward of the two cities being represented—many of them largely—and also a number of the outlying districts of the county. The main hall was brilliantly illuminated and looked splendidly, every one being indeed much pleased with the admirable arrangement and the taste displayed in the appointments and decorations of the room. The Great Western Band was in attendance and enlivened the proceedings with excellent music.

The meeting was called to order by the President of Club, Henry Lloyd, Esq., who welcomed the Republicans present and stated that the rooms would hereafter be kept open day and evening, and all political news received and disseminated there. It was the desire that all Republicans should visit the rooms and acquaint themselves with what was transpiring both at home and abroad.

In the absence of the Secretary of the club, on motion of Dr. Arthurs, Joseph M. Gazzan was appointed Secretary pro tem.

At the suggestion of the President the Secretary read the platform of the club as follows:

First—The status of membership shall be unflinching and unqualified adherence to such principles as from their nature and spirit are in accordance with all efforts tending to a firm support of the government of the United States.

Second—The primary object of this organization shall be to preserve and perpetuate the present high standing of the Republican party in all its purity of purpose, to discountenance all attempts to swerve us from our true course and to rebuke all efforts to cause dissensions and division among us.

Third—We pledge ourselves to resist and expose fraud and corruption, and endeavor by every means in our power to promote reform wherever it is shown to exist in our national, state and municipal affairs, and to elevate and disseminate the proper idea of American citizenship.

Letters were then read from Judge Veech, D. N. White and others warmly endorsing the objects of the Club and regretting their inability to attend.

The list of officers of the Club were then announced, as follows:

President—Henry Lloyd.
Vice Presidents—John A. Myler, Fourth ward, Allegheny.
Henry M. Long, First ward, Allegheny.
Jas. S. Negley, Twentieth ward, Pittsburgh.
Wm. E. Harrison, McKeesport.
Col. Ed. J. Allen, Braddocks.
Miles S. Humphreys, Birmingham.
Geo. M. Jones, Birmingham.
John M. Gillespie, Ross Township.
W. H. Oliver, Sr., Twenty-third ward, Pittsburgh.
Christ Miller, Seventeenth ward, Pittsburgh.
A. B. Buel, Sixteenth ward, Pittsburgh.
Robert Arthurs, Thirteenth ward, Pittsburgh.
Josiah Cohen, First ward, Pittsburgh.
Secretary—C. L. Magee.
Cor. Secretary—John D. Fleming.
Treasurer—Edward House.
Executive Com—Thomas Steel, Chairman; R. W. Mackey, E. P. Jones, Russel Errett, John H. Stewart.
Com. on Membership—Joel H. Hare, A. C. Patterson, M. K. Moorhead, R. H. Fite, James McBrier.
Finance Com—J. M. Brush, H. W. Oliver, Jr., Joseph Walton, Addison Arthurs, John Fleming.
Auditors—E. A. Montooth, Thomas Bigelow, W. J. Friday.

The President announced that "words of cheer" were in order, and calls being made at once for H. Bucher Swoope, Esq., that gentleman stepped forward and spoke in substance as follows:

REMARKS OF H. B. SWOOPE, ESQ.

The gentleman remarked in opening that he had not come with the intention of making a speech. He could, however, heartily congratulate the club on this auspicious formal opening of their rooms. He thought the time auspicious for the organization and its aims, and that much good would be done by it both for the party and the country. A State ticket was now in the field which every Republican could support; such as must command the approval and hearty support of every Republican in the State and which must undoubtedly carry a large majority of the whole people in the campaign now opening. The ticket of the opposition is also in the field, but it is weak and not worthy of support, in fact nothing less than a fraud upon the people. The Democracy has swallowed Vallandigham's "new departure," wool and all, and they would undoubtedly get very sick of it. The club opening was auspicious because the work of the Republican party is by no means ended. Jeff Davis, the head and front of the rebellion, has but lately been re-uttering his treasonous words, and it must be the duty of the Republican party party to defeat the machinations of the enemies of the country—the backers of the "lost cause," of which Jeff Davis is the leader. While there is treason in the land; while there are oppressed and down-trodden people, whether on account of color, religion or condition, the mission of the Republican party is by no means ended. That party has planted the national flag in every nook and corner of the country, on every hill-top, and in every valley, north, south, east and west, and it must and will be maintained. Brilliant has been the record of the party in the past; its record in the future will still be more brilliant. It will make every man, white or black, no matter from whence he comes, feel that he is the peer of his fellow-man. [Applause.] I congratulate you, then, Mr. President and members of the Lincoln Club, that you have effected this organization for the good work to be done. Let us enter upon it with the resolve to labor more earnestly in the good cause. Mr. Swoope closed his able though short speech with thanks for the attention paid him. His remarks throughout were received with applause.

CARNAHAN—WALTON—VANNOTE.

Robert B. Carnahan, being next called upon, made a few remarks. He congratulated the club on their successful opening, and on the elegant rooms they had provided in the interests of the great Republican party. He hoped all would take an interest in the work, and that entire harmony would prevail in the ranks; that all would work together for the success of the party, and the good of the country. The gentlemen then referred to the excellent ticket that had been nominated, both State and county, and trusted that the club might aid in its election by a large majority.

Hon. Joseph Walton was next called upon. He stated that it was unexpected, that he had come to listen and to hear—not to talk—and he had but a few remarks to make. The platform he had heard read he could credit heartily—it was just the thing—and upon it all Republicans would work together and achieve success. Speaking of himself the gentleman said he desired to let bygones be bygones. (Laughter and applause). He was ready to work faithfully for the cause and hoped the Club would be a great instrument in the desired gain of 10,000 to 12,000 majority for Gen. Grant in 1872. (Applause.)

Mr. Vannote, of the Dispatch, next addressed the meeting and spoke warmly in favor of the object of the organization. The want of a headquarters for the party had long been felt, and he hoped the club and its rooms would be of great good. What had been needed was a place for meeting of the members of the party, where they could talk over the events of the day, the issues before them and the results to be attained so that there would be a harmony and a singleness of purpose in their labors.

Josiah King being next called upon, made some practical and interesting observations. He held that the greatest could that would be done by the Club was the attraction that would be offered and the interest that would be aroused among the rank and file. And after all it is the "rank and file" that we must fall back upon. He felt like warning the Club, and he hoped it would come true, that the rooms may not be large enough. Let the proper interest be aroused and the mass of the party will assemble together and gather information, and thus the best work will be done. He referred to the campaign of '44, when, by a similar organization, the public interest was aroused, and in short notice an immense assemblage would be gathered when desired. By organized effort it was surprising what might be accomplished. He was glad of the organization, and was confident that by united effort great results will be attained. "In union there is strength." He thought the name chosen for the Club was most appropriate. All revere the memory of Lincoln, and "though dead, he yet speaketh." He has left words of cheer and consolation to his fellow-men. How admirable his address at the Gettysburg dedication. In closing that remarkable address the lamented President called upon the living to dedicate themselves to the completion of the work for which their brethren died. So, said Mr. King, let us now dedicate ourselves for the furtherance of the cause for which Lincoln died.

REMARKS OF GEN. NEGLEY.

The Hon. James S. Negley was loudly called for, and made a short but neat and appropriate address. He felt, he said, honored in being called upon, and was much pleased at seeing so many active members in the Republican cause gathered together. It was an evidence of their interest in the party and its principles, and showed a determination to go forward conquering and to conquer. The organization of clubs would secure discipline in the party and give it strength. By these means the future success of the party was secured more certain and harmony would everywhere prevail. There is much work before us, and we must be ready to sustain ourselves in every emergency. The spirit of rebellion still exists, and the "cause," though lost, is nursed by many. We have still to contend with the same foe that we have contended with for the last ten years. Thanking the club for their attention, Gen. Negley introduced the "fighting Parson."

COL. GRANVILLE MOODY.

Mr. Moody addressed the assemblage as men and brethren which privilege he thought would be accorded a Methodist like himself. The gentleman then spoke in the warmest terms of his old commander General Negley, whose bravery and ability as a military leader had been thoroughly tested during the last war. He was pleased to meet him here and see that he was appreciated by the people. He was glad to see the able soldier, transferred in time of peace to the Stateman's place, and honored and trusted by his countrymen. Mr. Moody then spoke at length of the political issues of the day and of the great work yet to be performed by the Republican party. He also paid a glowing tribute to our martyr President—a God marked man. The wise counsellor, the great, the good. The speech of Mr. Moody was heard throughout with the greatest attention and his many hits were received with laughter and applause.

Senator Anderson was next called upon and made some brief remarks. He congratulated the Club and the party on the organization and the elegant rooms provided, and heartily approved the enterprise. He believed it would be of incalculable benefit. By it information would be disseminated, and with the history of the party handed down to the rising generation good citizens would spring up.

Mr. Dalzell, a workingman, expressed his pleasure at being permittted to see the inauguration of the rooms, after which the meeting adjourned. Gen. Negley then introduced members of the Club to Col. Moody.

THE W. A. P.

Doing the City—Among Our Live Manufacturers—In the Allegheny Parks—A Visit to the Cemeteries—Arrangements for To-Day.

At the close of the annual session of the Western Associated Press, held in the Lincoln Club Rooms of this city on Wednesday last, a number of the representatives in attendance bade us adieu, having urgent professional business and engagements at home which necessitated their speedy return. It may not be regarded as presumptuous or egotistical on our part to make the assertion that all of our guests formed a much higher opinion of our city than they had ever before entertained, simply because they saw more of it, learned more about it and formed a large acquaintance with our leading and public spirited citizens, and were made familiar with what we can do in the manufacturing way. Those of the guests who remained over yesterday were escorted by the members of the local press and prominent manufacturers to various points of interest, and a very pleasant and instructive tour it was. The arrangements for vehicle accommodations and escort were entrusted to Col. John H. Stewart, and it is hardly necessary to add that nothing on his part was neglected. At ten o'clock some thirty elegant phætons were drawn up to the doors of the Monongahela House, and without delay the excursionists, including a number of ladies, were seated, and the procession started out to "do" the town and its surroundings under Colonel Stewarts' clever marshalship. Of course only a few representative establishments could be visited. None were purposely slighted for it would have been impossible to have visited all our manufactories, foundries and workshops in a half a day. This fact was patent to our guests when it was explained to them that the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, with their immediate suburbs, have a total of one thousand five hundred and fifty-seven manufactories of various kinds. Of these, the larger number are engaged in the production of iron or steel work, and in these branches a capital of $26,691,682 is invested; the annual consumption of raw material amounting to $14,734,883, and the value of the product being $36,328,711. These establishments give employment to 15,541 hands, whose wages amount to a total of $8,102,083. The entire manufacturing industries of the two cities represent a total capital of $53,429,650, employ 33,635 hands, pay $17,434,556 in wages annually, consume raw materials to the amount of $35,338,099, and produce annually to the amount of $78,239,933. In nearly all branches the profits have been satisfactory. The value of the raw materials added to the wages makes the sum of $52,772,655, to which may be added ten per cent. for incidental expenses, making $58,052,231, which, subtracted from the value of the annual production, leaves $20,187,702, which is about 37 per cent. on the capital employed. Thus, with all this array of dry statistics before our visitor, he will readily admit that it is impossible to see all we have to show in the way of industry.

THE INCLINED RAILWAY.

The first halt after a most delightful ride across the South Pittsburgh bridge, was made at the the office of the Inclined Railway. The guests were content to view this fine specimen of mechanical work and architectural beauty from the ground floor, but we do think they were afraid to ascend the railway of dizziness.

THE GLASS HOUSES.

After looking about Sligo and Monongahela borough, the party proceeded to A. & D. H. Chamber's bottle and window glass making establishment. In this well conducted institution, one of the oldest and most extensively known glass houses of the country, the party were awarded a cordial reception, and the blowers and cutters illustrated their beautiful art with a number of practical exhibitions in making globes, bottles and window panes in profusion for the pleasure and instruction of the visitors. One of our newspaper friends who never would entertain any idea of throwing stones in glass houses did do an equally unsafe thing in his essay to pick up a new blown globe that had just cooled enough to lose its red lustre. He will not write much with that blistered right hand for several days to come.

IRON MAKING.

After learning all about the secrets of glass making, the party visited the mammoth American Iron Works in East Birmingham. They were kindly and generously welcomed by the proprietors, Messrs. Jones & Laughlins, who gave them the free run of their mills, and kindly explained every thing connected with the wilderness of machinery, which fills them. The guests were absolutely astonished at what they saw here, and fully realized that it requires much brains to run a heavy rolling mill. We believe these iron and nail works are regarded as among the very largest in the world. The capital on which operative runs up among the millions, and the pay rolls of each month are large enough to run for a year an ordinary mill.

After seeing all that was strange, novel and interesting in and about the mill proper the visitors were next conducted to the nail factory which is very extensive and complete, and in full operation. The city has no finer a mechanical treat to offer strangers than a visit to a nail factory, for so few understand anything about the machinery used in turning out these necessary articles by the millions with such incredible and fabulous rapidity. At Jones & Laughlin's mills, iron was rolled hot and rolled cold, in sheets, and bars, and ribbons, and especially to our guests afforded a rare and much appreciated treat, and one combining novelty with a vast deal of instruction. There are few persons brought up and living in the city who appreciate what grand sights are afforded in our various mills and workshops.

HOME AGAIN.

The party again took seats in their carriages and with ideas greatly enlarged about glass, iron and rails and of big workshops generally, rolled along the closely built streets of Birmingham, stopping here and there to view casually its prominent points of interest and scenery on the banks of the muddy Monongahela, and soon again arrived at the hotel. After a breif rest and the ever necessary "wash" of hands and faces, the party were taken in charge of by Col. Stewart and the excursion progressed this time moving into Allegheny City, via. the elegant St. Clair street bridge.

THE PARKS.

Our guests were somewhat surprised, but none the less charmed and delighted, with the magnificent Paradise of flowers, fountains and shrubbery of our enterprising sister city. The several parks never looked greener or more heartsome, and our newspaper friends lavished hearty praise on the good taste everywhere displayed in these beautiful breathing grounds of the people. Allegheny need never either regret the expenditure of money which has brought her such positive luxury, nor the judgment which placed the decorations and adornments in charge of such gentlemen as Messrs. Charles Davis and James Park, Jr. To the former gentlemen much of the credit of the architectural beauty and landscape finish of the grounds are due, while an able and liberal co-operation was found in Mr. Park. The fountains were all playing, and none of the guests seemed to grow tired in lingering in the place.

AGAIN AMONG THE SHOPS.

Coming again to this side of the water the party visited the great cannon works attached to the Fort Pitt Foundry and by Mr. Metcalf and other gentlemen connected with the place. It was proposed to mould a big gun for the edification of the visitors but the time could not be well spared by them to await the operation. The Fort Pitt Foundry has a national reputation that will live in history. Here it was that the big guns and fierce growling mortars were turned out in such rapid succession during the war for the preservation of our union. Pittsburgh in those days of darkness spoke out in rather heavy tones through the engines of war manufactured at these works, but we hope never again will any occasion arise for the use against a portion of our own people of the death dealing instruments made in our shops of industry.

ANOTHER MILL.

The visitors next visited the large and splendidly appointed rolling mill and nail factory of C. Zug & Co. one of our representative institutions. They were warmly welcomed by Mr. C. Zug, Jr. When we say warmly we mean it. The atmosphere prevailing which was far above the butter melting degree. Half nude men were rushing and hauling great masses of white hot iron in all directions while big furnace doors on all sides breathed out scorching breaths which seemed to settle on the iorn plate floors making the mill like the entrance way of a veritable Avernus. But Mr. Zug, says that heat is nothing when one gets used to it—perhaps, he is right, but it was something yesterday while the Pittsburghers were roasting and toasting their guests. The sight seeing in this mill was very interesting.

STEEL WORKS.

Next, the excursionists visited the Black Diamond Steel Works of Park Brothers. This was another real treat, and opened a new chapter in Pittsburgh industries. These works, we believe, are the largest and most complete devoted to the manufacture of steel in this country. They cover a vast area of territory, and are supplied with the most pondrous as well as most delicate machinery used in making and working up steel for tool and other purposes. The firm showed the visitors many beautiful specimens of their workmanship, which elicited much admiration. The steel plates for boilers were especial objects of attraction among those who have ever given study to the subject of boiler explosions, for these entirely prevent such calamities, resisting an immense pressure. After seeing much that is attractive about the Black Diamond Steel Works the party visited

THE ALLEGHENY CEMETERY.

Here they were hospitably entertained by Superintendent Chislett, at his mansion where refreshments were furnished by the host. The grounds were surveyed and of course greatly admired by all, for naturally they are the most beautiful adapted for a silent city of the dead to be found any place in the country. After spending a pleasant time with Mr. Chislett and lady, the party returned direct to the hotel, where Mr. Crossan had an elegant dinner awaiting.

THE EXCURSION TO-DAY.

This morning those of the guests who remain in the city, together with a number of invited ladies and gentlemen, will start for an excursion to Chatauqua Lake, in New York, via Titusville and Oil Regions. A special train of Pullman coaches will leave the Union Depot at eight o'clock, sharp. At Titusville dinner will be taken, and the journey continued onward. The party will return on Saturday evening.

THANKS.

The members of the local press owe many thanks to Messrs. James Park, Jr., Jones & Laughlin's, Hon. J. M. Brush, Charles Davis, Charles W. Batchelor, Hon. A. P. Callow, Col. Wm. Phillips, Col. J. H. Stewart and other kind friends who contributed so much to the success of yesterday's entertainment by their courtesy and attention.

George Macdonald, the popular author, was bred a Congregational minister, and was for some years pastor of a Congregational church in Sussex, England, His views on several points of theology excited opposition on the part of some of his clerical brethren, and he finally left the pulpit to devote himself to literature. In respect of theology, probably, his views do not vary from the orthodox standards further than those of Henry Ward Beecher, while of his personal integrity and noble aims there is no doubt among those who know him.

We hear that an end has been put to the weekly interruption of the postal service between Ostend and Dover, and that in future two packets will run between those towns on Sundays as well as week days. This is here considered a great improvement, as the interruption to which the non-European mails which pass via London have hitherto been exposed, has long been felt to be a serious inconvenience.

The railway bridge over the Rhine at Kehl which was so much admired, was destroyed at the beginning of the war. The destruction of the bridge is about to be made the cause of a lawsuit, the plaintiffs holding that it was unnecessary. The order was given by the Grand Duke of Baden, and a Carlsruhe official superintended the demolition. The Grand Duke will have to prove that he had special authority from headquarters for the act.

A New York Tribune correspondent says that, "Among the negroes of the upper and middle counties of South Carolina, there is a widespread apprehension of some concerted hostile movement against them on the part of the white men, which may begin at any day. A letter from Valparaiso, Chili, giving an account of the recent earthquake shocks at that point says: "One young lady, living near Plaza Victoria, was in the bath when the shock came, and rushed into the square entirely naked. After the shock had passed and subsiding terror permitted her to realize her situation, she found herself standing by a man who had nothing on but his shirt. In an agony of shame she clutched at the man's shirt, tore it from his back, and wrapping it around her waist, rushed into the house, leaving the man entirely naked, as a moment before she had been herself."

While the largest breweries of England produce each from 70,000,000 to 90,000,000 quarts of beer annually, the largest brewery of Germany produces about 23,000,000 quarts, and the largest in Austria about 38,000,000 quarts. Irrespective of its export and import, England consumes about 120 quarts of that beverage annually to each head of her population; Belgium, 54; Germany, 48; Austria, 20; France, 18; Switzerland, 16 quarts. At Munich, Bavaria, about 230 quarts of lager beer to each head of the population are consumed annually. Munich is the most noted city for beer drinking in the world.

Among the pamphlets issued in Paris during the ascendency of the Commune was one advocating the abolition of orthography. The writer's opposition to spelling was grounded on the political faith that the correct use of the alphabet is aristocratic and monarchical and against the interests of the masses, and that there should be no more an aristorcray of learning than one of power, church, or what not. Strange to say, while this great propogandist was leveling the undue exaltation with the undue depression the French Academy was discussing whether or not "hypotheneuse" should be spelt with or without the second "n."

Lord Seaforth, who was born deaf and dumb, was to dine one day with Lord Melville. Just before the time of the company's arrival, Lady Melville sent into the drawing room a lady of her acquaintance who could talk with her fingers to dumb people, that she might receive Lord Seaforth. Presently Lord Guilford entered the room, and the lady, taking him for Lord Seaforth, began to ply her fingers very nimbly. Lord Guilford did the same, and they had been carrying on a conversation in this manner for about ten minutes when Lady Melville joined. Her female friend immediately said, "Well, I have been talking away to this dumb man." "Dumb!" cried Lord Guilford; "bless me, I thought you were dumb?"

This is the same mask which Mr. Page has used in modelling the head of the poet for the portrait which he is about to paint.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 112⅛@112¼.

IN the sudden and tragic death of W. N. Ogden, Esq., elsewhere reported, the city and county have suffered the loss of a good and patriotic citizen. He was universally respected, and his death will be very generally mourned in all circles of our local society.

IT is with a feeling of profound sorrow we announce that the two Commissioners who were charged with receiving bribes from persons applying for license to sell liquor acknowledged their guilt yesterday in the Court of Quarter Sessions. We hoped they would be able to prove their innocence, but the evidence was so overwhelmingly against them, they made no attempt to vindicate or establish their innocence. Let their humiliating condition be a warning to others. Honesty is the only policy.

THE members of the Western Press Association were yesterday introduced into many of our representative workshops, and were most kindly and cordially received and welcomed by our manufacturers. Their impressions of our ability to do great things in the way of making iron and glass and steel were very favorable, and we believe they will depart from our city with a much higher estimate of its wealth and importance than they ever before entertained. This morning our newspaper friends and guests will leave for an excursion trip to Chatauqua Lake in New York. We wish all a pleasant time.

OUR neighbors of the Post are becoming more candid and outspoken than they used to be. In yesterday's issue they say that Jefferson Davis "fell from grace and became a secessionist." We never knew before that a sovereign State, which is a "foreign body," could secede. What has become of the doctrine of States' rights, about which our neighbor is continually harping, if Davis and his coadjutors were all secessionists? If the States are absolutely sovereign and independent, there can't be such a thing as secession. How can a man "fall from grace" by becoming a secessionist, if the doctrines of Jeff. Davis, which the Post endorses, be true?

THE Post proposes to metamorphose the white man's into a black man's government, by admitting negroes to the exercise and enjoyment of all the rights of citizenship. In this way it expects the "Radical leaders" shall be "driven from power," and when they are "dispossessed," "the Democracy" will "see what can be done" to establish a "white man's government." This is another departure. It is the shrewdest policy that has yet come to the surface, and indicates exactly the sincerity of the Democracy in accepting the situation. We know well where the Post stands. It will be satisfied with any government until its party gets into power, and then—.

THE LINCOLN CLUB HOUSE, recently secured and fitted and furnished in very luxurious and costly manner by a number of Republican gentlemen, was last night formally opened and dedicated to the purposes for which intended. The gentlemen who have been instrumental in securing and establishing such regal headquarters for the use of our party are eminently deserving of credit and praise, for they left nothing undone that liberality and good taste could suggest to render the Lincoln Club House worthy the predominant party of Allegheny. Membership in the Club is open to all Republicans of the county, and we hope that the Secretary's books may show, ere long, the names of fully one thousand, if not five thousand active friends and subscribers.

AS IF IT WERE NOT ENOUGH that France has the Red Republicans, the Bonapartes and the combined royalist forces under the Count of Chambord, struggling for high places and dominion, while the wiley Thiers, perhaps with a memory of Marshall Prim, prolongs the inter regnum and holds the governmental reins. As if all this were not enough, we say, there is now, it seems, a new claimant for the throne, which has proved so unstable, and the crown, which fits so badly. Auguste de Bourbon cannot boast of many followers, but he claims to be the legitimate son of Louis XVII. who is popularly believed to have perished when a child under the brutal treatment of Simon in the Temple. There is but little reason to believe that he escaped, but if he did, the son of the Reverend Eleazer Williams has as much reason to claim to be his descendant as has Auguste de Bourbon; and, if Mr. Williams should lay claim to the throne of France, we have no hesitation in saying that the sympathy of the United States would be with him quite as much as with the other pretender who has taken to himself so high sounding a name.

IT APPEARS that the explanation given by a New York paper, whose Republican proclivities are not very strong, in relation to the West Point cadetships, has not been received by Democratic journals as satisfactory, nor a complete exculpation of General Grant from all blame in the matter. The New York Sun, in the face of all testimony to the contrary, reiterates the statement that the President refused to nominate to a West Point cadetship the son of General Thomas Francis Meagher. The reason assigned by the Sun, which the Philadelphia Age receives as being as true as the gospel, is rather amusing. It says that President Grant refused to nominate young Meagher out of respect for the feelings of Earl DeGrey. The distinguished High Commissioner must feel deeply wounded when he learns that the President of the United States had so little regard for his tender sensibilities as actually to nominate Meagher to a cadetship at West Point. We hope there will no war grow out of this want of consideration on the part of the President. The facts of the case are, that General Grant did not nominate Brigham Young's son to a cadetship, but did recommend young Meagher for that position.

REVISION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The matter of revising and amending the National Constitution is now being discussed by a few papers in different parts of the country. Some of them propose that a Convention should be called for this purpose, others are of the opinion that a revision at the present time would not only be inexpedient, but be fraught with great danger, and imperil the peace of the country. That amendments might be made there is no question, but that this is the time to make them we are not fully convinced. The successful issue of the war against rebellion called for, and obtained the engrafting of important amendments in the fundamental law of the nation; and although they evoked violent opposition at first, they are now accepted as accomplished facts by the Democracy of Ohio and Pennsylvania and elsewhere. But although accepted as facts accomplished by the "appointed constitutional authority," it appears, according to the declarations of some Democratic journals, that there is to be a "great fight over the construction that is to be put upon" them. This language is plain and perfectly intelligible. No one of the meanest intelligence can misunderstand them. And yet, it is asserted that the opinions of Democrats and Republicans in regard to their meaning are as "wide asunder as the poles." If this is the case, it is not likely that any harmonious understanding could be arrived at, in the present state of public opinion, as to the amendments that should be made, and the language in which they should be couched.

The Constitution provides very wisely for its own amendment, as follows: "Congress, whenever two thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution; or, on the appplication of the Legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by Congress." The wisdom of this provision was made more apparent at the close of the late war than at any previous period in the nation's history. Had it not been for the amendments made after the war, the country would now be in a state of general anarchy, and it is questionable whether Jefferson Davis would admit that any "unpleasantness" had ever taken place.

When the recent amendments were proposed, the Democrats clamored for the "Constitution as it is," and used every effort in their power to prevent their ratification, declaring that it was derogatory to the wisdom and sagacity of the fathers who framed it to incorporate them in the organic law of the nation. Upon this ground we would not urge a single objection against the revision and amendments now proposed by certain newspapers, because the framers of the Constitution in their wisdom saw that amendments would be necessary in the course of time, and made ample provision for them. They did not claim to be infallible. In the acuteness of their political vision they saw that contingencies and exigencies would arise that could not then be provided for. No government can long exist that does not adapt itself to popular interests and necessities. The powers of a government require to be limited and enlarged according to existing circumstances. The National Constitution bore the immense strain of the war against rebellion, and we are firmly in the belief that its spirit was carried out during all those dark days and years that rested up on the country during its continuance. An instrument that was adequate to the purpose of suppressing such a gigantic rebellion as that which was waged against the government of the United States by our ill-advised and misguided fellow countrymen of the South, will certainly serve every purpose until the issues settled by the war shall have attained "solidarity," and there shall be no difference of opinion as to the construction to be placed on the amendments to the Constitution which were created by it.

But whilst we admit that the people have a perfect right, in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution itself, to amend that instrument, and that it is wise at times to do so, we think we will evince our wisdom by not piling on amendments too frequently. Frequent changes have a tendency to unsettle the public mind. No matter how important or unimportant the change proposed may be, it produces more or less agitation and creates angry discussion, which is seldom productive of much good, although we readily grant that the political as well as the natural atmosphere has been purified by storms. Witness the effects produced by the discussions which have taken place in regard to the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments. They are acknowledged as accomplished facts, their binding obligation is recognized, and a pledge has been given by the Democracy in different parts of the country to a "full, faithful and absolute execution of the Constitution, as it now is, so as to secure equal rights to all persons under it, without distinction of race, color or condition," notwithstanding others threaten a war in regard to the construction that is to be put upon the amendments that have recently been incorporated in it. But notwithstanding all this, frequent changes in the fundamental law cannot be productive of good. They must be attended with and followed by anarchy and confusion.

Besides, the public mind is scarcely in a fit condition to engage in such an important work at the present time. There is too much asperity of feeling, and bitterness of partisanship to secure that patient deliberation and impartial consideration which are so necessary to the satisfactory accomplishment of a work of such national importance. A revision of the Constitution at this particular juncture would re-open a discussion of all those vexed questions which have harassed and distracted the nation so long. For notwithstanding there appears on the surface, a general acceptance of the situation brought about by the war, yet if the speeches of Jefferson Davis, Robert Toombs, George W. McCook and others, and the favor and applause which they meet in certain quarters, have any significance, slavery, repudiation, universal suffrage and reconstruction are not "dead issues." At least, an attempt would be made to revive them, and they would be among the first questions that would be sprung upon any convention that might assemble to revise the Constitution. We fear that to attempt a revision of it now would result in its destruction. The Articles of Confederation could not be revised in such a way as to meet the wishes of the men of the day in which their amendments was attempted. They were set aside altogether. There is no comparison, in point of perfection, between the Articles of Confederation and the present Constitution, but we fear that if a revision of the latter were attempted now it would result in the substitution of something so entirely new that its original framers would not be able to recognize it, nor see its adaptation to the existing exigencies of our day.

That important amendments might and should be made, as soon as the nation finds itself in a fit frame to engage in the work, we have no hesitation in acknowledging. Electoral colleges should be abolished, and the President elected by a direct vote of the nation. The Supreme Court of the United States should be made elective by the people, and everything pertaining to apprenticeship and persons held to service should be stricken out. But we have serious apprehensions whether these and other necessary amendments could be made at the present time, without endangering the peace and harmony of the nation, and producing such a state of agitation as would throw it into an angry ferment.

GENERAL RODMAM.

Of all the officers who have, from time to time, been stationed at the Allegheny Arsenal, none have become more distinguished than General Rodman. As a gentleman of refinement and culture, and as an accomplished officer he was held high in the esteem of his large circle of friends. But it was his invention of the Rodman process of casting guns hollow which rendered his name famous throughout the land. The General, while stationed at the Allegheny Arsenal, married a daughter of the late Dr. Black and a sister of the late Col. Sam. Black, with whom he has lived, at the various posts which he has occupied, for more than twenty-five years. He leaves several children—one of whom is Lieutenant John Black Rodman, of Gen. Hancock's staff—who with his widow have the sympathy of their many personal friends as well as of the community at large who mourn the loss of a brave officer and a useful man.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

A COPIOUS AND CRITICAL ENGLISH-LATIN DICTIONARY. By William Smith, L. L. D., "Editor of Classical Dictionaries," "Old and New Testament Histories," etc., and Theophilus D. Hall M. A., of University College, London. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by E. Miner, Pittsburgh.

This work beyond doubt is the most perfect of the kind ever published in this country, and it will long fill a place among scholars that fine works attain. It is a monument of the great learning, and patient industry of Dr. Smith, and those associated with him. Fifteen full years were spent on its preparation. Such was the magnitude of the project that it required years of devoted labor to make this book worthy of the age. At the time it was undertaken, there was not an existing English-Latin Dictionary before the public. In order to ensure the pertinancy of the examples, great care was used in the verification of references. Gradually as the work advanced its scope was enlarged, involving a heavy outlay of time and names. Among the excellant features is: Classification of the different senses of the English words, and in dealing with words nearly synonymous, the authors have carefully sought to avoid needless repetition. The Dictionary of proper names enhances its value. We therefore unhesitatingly commend this work to all classes, as being without a peer, and all well ordered libraries are incomplete without it.

THROUGH BLOOD AND IRON. An historical novel. by Prof. Rudolph Leonhardt, Pittsburgh. Ernst Luft & Co.

The author of this book is well known in this vicinity, as a professor in the University, as a teacher of the German language and, later, as the author of several books which have been published, from time to time, either serially or in book form. Through Blood and Iron, as a work of fiction, is fully equal to the best of the professor's works, while it has an additional value, because it treats of the late gigantic Franco-German war, with the details and romance of which the professor has had unusual facilities for becoming familiar, while he has a personal knowledge of all the topographical features, and all the scenery of that great tragedy. We believe that this is the first historical fiction that has, as yet, been published in this country concerning the events of the past year, and as such it should command a ready sale. Messrs. E. Luft & Co. have produced the volume in a very neat form, filled with illustrations, which, however, add very little to the value of the book. Professor Leonhardt is about to start out on a tour of the neighborhood for the sale of his book, and we hope he may be successful.

AD. COELUM: ADVICE TO A YOUNG PREACHER. By Joseph Parker, D. D. Author of "Ecce Deus." Published by Roberts Brothers, Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

It is rarely the case that proper judgment is exercised in such a grave matter, as giving advice to young ministers, but every part of this work is brought out in strong and vigorous words. It is hardly probable for any one to give such advice, as will please everybody. The doctor, however, exhibits great genius in the treatment of the topics, and yet many would prefer to seek advice elsewhere, especially American readers. It is on the whole a rich and racy collection of articles.

THE MUTINEERS OF THE BOUNTY, and their Descendants in Pitcairn and Norfolk Islands. By Lady Belcher, with Maps and Illustrations. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York. For sale by E. Miner, Pittsburgh.

This is a work of more than ordinary interest. It is an enlargement of a little volume, "The Mutiny of the Bounty," published thirty-nine years ago. Since then additional light has appeared, which is here narrated. The simple narrative itself is intensely interesting, but it also happily illustrates some things, which clearly demonstrate the natural instincts we have for each other. The problem of life is here developed in many phases, and few can read the book without learning useful lessons. We heartily commend the work to the family circle.

ROMAN IMPERIALISM, and OTHER LECTURES AND ESSAYS. By J. R. Seeley, M. A., Professor of Modern History in the University of Cambridge, and author of "Ecce Homo." Published by Roberts Brothers, Boston. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co.

Comendable as the three essays on the rise and fall of Roman Imperialism are for freshness and vigor of thought, some are not prepared to accept these views of the effects of Christianity in the Roman empire. The other essays are varied, and excellent, embodying sturdy thought, beautiful language, and worthy of commendation for their many excellencies.

THE APPLE CULTURIST, By Soreno Edwards Todd, author of "Todd's Young Farmer's Manual." Etc., etc. Published by Harper & Brothers New York.

For practical purposes, in cultivating this best of fruits, we know of no work equal to this volume. It is opportune, and may do vast good in aiding fruit growers to bring flavored apples to the highest state of culture. And even those not especially interested in fruit training, will be aided in the valuable information imparted. The illustrations will serve a good purpose in reading the work.

OPPORTUNITIES.—A sequel to "What She Could." By the author of "Wide, Wide World." Published by Robert Carter & Brothers, New York. For sale by S. A. Clarke & Co., Pittsburgh.

This is a picture of English life, in which the heroine is depicted in glowing colors, and illustrates the happy results from the discipline she was called to pass through. It is a capital book for young people, written in Miss Warner's charming style. It is in some respects a striking contrast to her previous works, but illustrates her brilliant talents.

THE SCIENCE OF MONEY A GREAT TRUTH. By Nomstake. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

In this volume we have presented a clear and succinct account of the questions of Gold Legal Tender, Bills of Exchange, Exports and Imports, Balance of Trade, Favorable or Unfavorable Balance of Exchange. These questions are simplified and made clearly manifest. Much real and substantial information is also embodied in this volume, such as business men and others may read to profit. The author writes enthusiastically.

THE OLD MAM'SELLE'S SECRET. After the German of E. Marlitt, author of "Gold Elsie" and "Countess Gisela." By Mrs. A. L. Wister. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

This is a new edition of a favorite author, and at the time it first appeared it gave much satisfaction. It is the German type of thought of the sturdiest kind, which of late has become quite popular with lovers of fiction. The edition is gotten up in good style and at low rates.

THE DRESS AND CARE OF THE FEET. Published by S. R. Wells, New York; J. W. Pittock, Pittsburgh.

The author, while not pretending to get up an elaborate and scientific work on this subject, has embodied in a practical form information of the most valuable kind. Throughout the book the question is treated in a common-sense and instructive manner. The work shows the natural perfect shape of the feet, their present deformed condition, and how flat feet, distorted toes and other defects are to be corrected.

HIMSELF HIS WORST ENEMY: or, Philip Duke of Wharton's career. By Alfred P. Brotherhood, Liberian. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. For sale by W. A. Gildenfenny.

The chief characters of this romance will attract attention at the outset, and be apt to hold the reader until the close. The story is clearly told, and doubtless it will find very many readers. The author will have a good cause for encouragement, though it is his first effort at book making.

THE AMERICAN CARDINAL. A Novel. New York: Dodd & Mead. Pittsburgh: S. A. Clarke & Co.

This book is very strikingly bound in scarlet cloth, with a cardinal's hat and crosier in black upon the sides. It is a novel and treats upon most of the subjects of interest of the day, such as Papal Infallibility, Secession, Abolition, Ritualism and Woman's Rights. It is said to be the work of a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and if the style were more connected and the errors in grammar less glaring and frequent, it might be the forerunner of future works which would prove a credit to him.

LIFE AND DEATH: A Novel. Published by Carleton, New York. For sale by J. W. Pittock, Fifth avenue.

Readers must not be surprised to find this a racily written work and rather of the sensational type, though there is "vim" and "snap" enough to attract very many of our readers. Its characters are striking.

THISTLE-DOWN. By Esmeralda Boyle. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia. For sale by R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

The writer gives evidence of poetic talent in these poems, and in future years may attain a high place in literary circles. The pieces are exceedingly varied and generally short. Here and there "gems" appear, which very many will enjoy reading. The book is prettily printed.

HOW HE DID IT. A novel. By Mrs. Eliza A. Dupuy, author of "Why Did He Marry Her?" Published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia.

The scene of this story is laid in Virginia, and is of a dramatic cast of thought, and rather sensational. The author is a prominent and popular writer of the New York Ledger, and is therefore well known to the public.

MARK TWAIN'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY. Published by Sheldon & Co., New York.

Many will enjoy the satire and rich flavor of this thin volume. No one can read Mark Twain's writings without discovering the wonderful genius of the writer. The illustrations are quite well done.

LITTLE NELLIE: The Clockmaker's Daughter. By F. M. C. W. Published by Henry Hoyt, Boston.

Young people will find this story of real interest, and few can peruse the volume without admiring little Nellie, the heroine. The publisher has robed the book in tasteful attire, rendering it handsome as well as instructive.

LOCAL TAXES. Report of Commissioners appointed by the New York Legislature to revise the laws for the Assessment and collection of State and local taxes. By David A. Wells, &c., commissioners. Published by Harper Brothers, New York.

This valuable report has more than a local importance, as it embraces grave questions relative to the principles of taxation, which interest taxpayers in every community, and its cheap form makes it possible for all persons to buy and read it.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, Philadelphia, have sent us "The Three Guardsmen; or, The Three Mousquetaires," and "Twenty Years After," being the second series of the "The Three Guardsmen," by Alexander Dumas. These volumes, octavo, are published at the low price of 75 cents.

POLITICAL NOTES.

GOVERNOR LESLIE, of Kentucky, it is said, will make the Governor's office, which he hopes to occupy after the present canvass, merely a step to the United States Senate.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal says: We have had so much of the bayonet for the last few years that we would prefer to have no smell of gunpowder about our candidate for the Presidency.

THE Macon (Georgia) Telegraph and Messenger severely denounces the proposition for the Democrats to nominate Gen. Sherman for President, and says that the Democrats have had enough of "policy" and "new departures."

AT the charter election in Norwich, Conn., yesterday, the Republicans carried the city, although Mr. James H. Hovey, Democrat, was elected Mayor last year by a majority of three hundred and fifty. The new Mayor is Mr. James Lloyd Greene, who received about three hundred majority over Hovey.

THE Independent says: The surrender of the Democratic party under the lead of Vallandigham is acquiesced in by the party at large with a better grace than we hoped. Really, it looks as though the adoption of the Republican platform by the Democrats is likely to be complete and hearty. This is the most remarkable conversion we have had to chronicle these many days. As the evidences so far are tolerably satisfactory, we can do nothing less than to take them on a six month's probation. Let us trust that they may not fall from grace.

THE editor of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, speaking by direct authority from the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, defines that gentleman's present opinion as to the validity of the XIIIth, XIVth, and XVth Amendments. The first he regards as a vital part of the organic law, having been duly ratified by the Southern States. He does not hold the XIVth and XVth Amendments to be valid parts of the Constitution, these having been carried "by a violent displacement of the regular governments of Southern States, and the erection in their stead of military despotism." Mr. Stephens advises no resistance by force to the execution of the Amendments, but thinks the wrong should be attacked by constant exposure and condemnation.

THE Washington Patriot, a leading Democratic organ, speaking of the report that the combined action of Democratic Senators, in the vote upon the Treaty, was decided upon in caucus as a party measure, says: "No such 'meeting' or 'caucus,' or conference of any kind, was held. No pledges were made, no vote was taken, and the Treaty was never, in any manner, shape or form, discussed, considered or proposed to be acted upon, as a political question, or in the sense of party policy. Quite the contrary. We undertake to say, from some knowledge of the facts, that it was fairly, fully, and honestly judged by its merits alone, and that there was no interchange of opinion to determine action. Every Democratic Senator voted freely, upon his own responsibility and convictions, and the reserve was carried so far that the intended course of several of them was really not known, until their votes were cast."

Some of Minister Washburne's Duties During the Siege.

[From the New York Mail.]

A copy of the London Times of the date of January 26, has been handed to us, with the view of showing how that paper was used as a means of communicating with those who were shut up in Paris during the siege. Four columns of small "Personals" are published conveying information to friends in Paris or asking for intelligence from them. Out of this surprising number at least half are addressed to our Minister, Mr. Washburne, who is asked therein to act as the medium of information to private persons in Paris.

We give a few specimens, not only as newspaper curiosities, but as showing the multifarious duties imposed on our Minister and actually performed by him to an extent perfectly marvelous. For instance:

"Hon. E. B. Washburne:
"Please send word to A. Boral, No. 64 Avenue des Champs Elysees, Paris, that his wife and children are all well.
HENRY J. BARBEY, U. S. City."

"Hon. E. B. Washburne, U. S. Ministre:
"Priere de faire savoir a Lanseigne Rue d, Hauteville 48, Paris, que toute la famille d'Elbeuf, ainsi que les deux demoiselles a Brighton, sont tres bien."

"Hon. E. B. Washburne:
"Kindly communicate to Mrs. Rouilly, 21 Rue de Grand Prieure, that all her friends in Braintree are well, and receive her letters regularly. Loving sympathy. Best wishes for the 22d."

"Hon. Mr. Washburne:
"Advertiser would be grateful if you would inform C. A. Dabore, 36 Rue des Vinagriers that his wife and family are well at Birmingham. All letters received."

"Hon. E. B. Washburne, United States Ministre, Paris:
"Priere d'informer Monsieur Prosper Ferrere, 3 Rue Lafitte. Femme et enfants tres bien, Boulogne, 19 Janvier, Regu lettres: envoye vingt telegrammes."

"Hon. E. B. Washburne, United States Minister, Paris:
"Is earnestly requested by Messrs. Waring Brothers, of London, to inform Mr. Jules Van der Wynckele, 42 Rue Abbatucci, that his wife, daughters, and the Degroux family are in good health and receive all his letters."

And so on with innumerable variations. Some copy of this paper was almost certain to get to Mr. Washburne. And we are assured that he fulfilled the onerous duties thus imposed on him to a very large extent, besides protecting the Germans from the French, taking care of hundreds of troublesome Americans, acting as a means of communication between the French and Germans, and otherwise performing as much hard work as would have killed a score of old-school, red-tape, easy-going and fussy diplomatists. Had imperial flunkeyism continued we might have had a more suitable Minister at Paris than Mr. Washburne, but for the stormy times that have prevailed since last July we doubt if any other man could have been selected who would have "filled the whole bill" as acceptably as our frank, fearless, energetic, hard-working and independent ex-Congressman. Whatever diplomatic honors have been won in Paris have been almost wholly monopolized by Mr. Washburne—the right man in the right place, and at the right time.

THE far-famed banking-house of the Rothschilds having been founded in 1771, will be one hundred years old this year.

THE Indians of Peru have a tradition of an immense buried treasure in that country. They say that Atahualpa's great reservoir of gold, a temple filled with rooms full of the metal, never was siezed by the Spaniards; that it exists still and that the secret of its existence is kept by a family or tribe of Indians who religiously guard the treasure for the day when the heir of the Incas shall resume his ancient throne.

THE STRONGEST TESTIMONY

Of any to be found in favor of any medicine that we have ever known, is that which we have recorded in the GAZETTE for the past year corroborative of the extraordinary powers of DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER. Not simply here or there a case that set at naught all other tried remedies and compunds, but cases in every part of the city or vicinity, whose violence had defied every known means of cure. DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER seems to possess almost talismanic virtues, equalled only by the extraordinary skill of the Doctor himself, when brought to bear against the inroads and ravages of disease. We have the pleasure herewith to append another certificate of cure by one of our most reliable citizens, which we commend to the notice of the afflicted:

TO DR. GEO. H. KEYSER:

SIR: Permit me to return to you my sincere thanks for the time, labor and expense which you have given in the search of that great combination of curatives which you have so wisely concentrated in your unequalled BLOOD SEARCHER.

I have used it in my family for the past two years with unfailing success and am fully convinced that it saved the life of one member of my family.

In cases of debility, of scrofula, of diseases of the eye, or any disorganization of the digestive organs, or of the blood, it has no equal.

I cheerfully bear my unsolicited testimony to its efficacy and powerful curative properties, and would unhesitatingly recommend it to the afflicted.

A PITIFUL CONDITION.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure to their more robust and energetic fellow-beings.

In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening: not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterwards into a more pitiable condition than ever, (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to,) but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a coarse of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time in administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant have been taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve, and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished. my5

NEW YORK, June 8, 1871.

Gold firm at 12⅛@12⅜c, with 1@2 per cent. asked for carrying. Clearances $77,000,000. The amount of gold bid for at the Treasury sale was $6,623,500 at from 111.18 to 112.28¾. The awards are $1,800,000 at from 112.20 to 112.28¾.

Governments strong and a fraction higher on 5-20 issues. The 10-40 issues were a shade lower.

The great feature of the stock market to-day was Rock Island, which broke about four per cent. in as many minutes, selling down to 120¾. At this point a prominent operator identified with the Rock Island pool came forward in person and bid 121 for all stock that was for sale, which checked the downward movement. The transactions in this stock were enormous. In the latter part of the afternoon Lake Shore broke down to 113¾. The fluctuations in the general list were merely in sympathy with the movements in Rock Island in the earlier part of the day and with those of Lake Shore in the afternoon. The cause of the decline in these stocks is the disappointment felt at the delay in giving the expected stock dividend. At a special meeting of the Directors of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Companies held in this city this afternoon, the usual semi-annual dividend of four per cent. was declared, payable in August. The first transfer books will close June 26th and re-open August 2d. A resolution was also adopted recommending the issue of $15,000,000 new stock, thereby raising the Lake Shore capital to $50,000,000, and calling an extra meeting of the stockholders for July 27th, at Cleveland, to vote on the question of an extra issue of stock. There was nothing in the resolution relative to the amount of cash to be called up on the new loan. The American Merchants' Union Express Company has declared a dividend of $3 per share, payable July 1st. The New York Central and Harlem Railroad Companies have declared dividends of four per cent. free for preferred and common stock, payable July first. The market closed strong on the list generally. A decided improvement is maintained over the lower points recently made, and the Western Union, New York Central stock and scrip, Reading, the Northwesterns, Wabash and Ohio stand up well amid the excitement. The cliques have been buying heavily, and will attempt to rally the market.

Money easy at 3@4 per cent.

State Bonds dull and steady with the exception of South Carolina new, which were strong and active.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, June 8, 1871. }

ASHES—Common Soda Ash, 4⅛@4⅜; refined do, 4⅛@4⅜; Pearls, 9@9⅛; Pots, 7⅛@7⅜.

BUTTER—There is rather more inquiry for strictly prime but no advance in prices, 15@16 cts; the supply of this kind is light, scarcely equal to the demand and the receipts for some days past have been meagre. Grease Butter unchanged, at 9@10 cts.

BEANS—There is some little inquiry for prime navy but common do not seem to be wanted at any price; the former may be quoted at $2.

BROOM CORN—Dull and unchanged.

BEESWAX—Quoted at 30@32 cts.

CEMENT—Louisville, $2,50@2,75 per bbl. Rosendale, $4,00@4,50; Calcined Plaster, $4,25@4,50.

CANNED GOODS—We are reported sales of Tomatoes at $2⅛@2⅜; and Corn at $2⅛@2⅜. Peaches, $3,25@3,50 for 3 lb cans, and $2,25@2,50 for 2 lb cans.

CARBON OIL—Is firm and higher, though the jobbing trade, as is usually the case at this season of the year, does not amount to much. Standard brands may now be quoted at 24 cts—usual advance for small lots.

CHEESE—Is weak under the influence of liberal receipts and a further decline is expected. We continue to quote prime Goshen at 13⅛@14, prime Factory, 12⅜@13; and Dairy, 11@12.

COUNTRY BACON—Continues very dull but unchanged; shoulders, 6@6½; ribbed sides, 7@7½; Hams, 10@12. Country Lard, 9@10.

CORN MEAL—We can report small sales at 85@90 cts per bushel.

EGGS—Continue slow and with fair receipts and a supply in excess of the demand, the market is weak and prices drooping; we now quote at 15@16 cts, with sales reported at both quotations; it is but proper to remark that as yet dealers generally are asking 16c. There is no inquiry for export and no chance to make consignments as prices are relatively better here than in the east.

FRUITS—We are reported occasional small sales of green apples at $7@9 per bbl. Dried Fruit unchanged, and the supply is mostly of an inferior quality and hard to sell at any price. Turkey Prunes, 10c; Currants, 10c; Layer Raisins, $3 per box; Valencea's 13 cts per lb. Lemons, $6.50 per box; Oranges, re-packed $7,00.

FLOUR—Is firm and moderately active, though the demand is mainly local while prices are unchanged—the western markets, including Cincinnati and Chicago, have been strong for some days past. We continue to quote red winter wheat at $7,00@7,25; white wheat at $7,50; good spring extras, $7,00 and choice baker's flour, $7,25. Rye Flour, $6, in a small way.

FEATHERS—Quiet and unchanged; No. 1 live geese feathers, 74@75.

GRAIN—Wheat is scarce and in steady demand and the mills are taking all that offers at quotations, $1,45@1,48 for good to prime red and $1,55@1,58 for white. The receipts have been small for some time past, which may be attributed in part to the fact that farmers are now too busily engaged on their farms to attend to anything else, and, besides, the stock in first hands is evidently pretty well reduced. Oats, steady but without quotable change in price, 60@62 buying and 63@64 selling—small lots, in store, 65@68. There is no improvement in the demand for Corn and there is considerable offering, as holders generally are anxious to realize; we continue to quote mixed ear at 65, mixed shelled at 66@67 and prime yellow shelled at 69@70. There is nothing doing in Rye—none arriving; dealers are still paying $1 for small lots and a round lot would probably bring 3@5 cts more.

GROCERIES—The Coffee market continues dull and neglected, and, with a steady increase in stocks and no improvement in the demand, prices are weak, though nominally unchanged. Importers are anxious to realize even at a loss, but buyers are scarce, and the indications generally point to a further decline, particularly in Brazils. The stock of Rio in the country is 161,922 bags, including 96,612 bags at New York; 42,175 at Baltimore; 4,000 at Galveston; 8,566 at New Orleans; 8,468 at Mobile and 2,000 at Savanah. Sugars, both raw an refined, continue strong, and while there is no advance, holders are firm at quotations. Molasses, Syrups, Rice, etc., quiet and unchanged.

COFFEE—Fancy Rio, 18⅛; Prime, 17⅛; Good, 16⅞; Fair, 16; Roasting, 15⅜@16.

SYRUPS AND DRIPS—White Honey, 72; Havemyer & Elders, 72; Silver Drips, 60; Loverings, 64; other grades, 45@55.

SUGARS—Choice New Orleans, 11⅞; prime, 11⅛ good, 10⅞; fully fair, 10⅜; Porto Rico Sugars, 10⅜@11⅜; Cuba, 10@11; Demarara, 11⅞@12⅜.

REFINED SUGARS—Hard Sugars, 14; A Coffee, 13; "B," 12⅞; Extra C, 12⅜; C yellow, 12⅛.

MOLASSES—New Orleans, choice, 70; prime, 68; good, 65.

TEAS—Fancy Young Hyson, $1 40; Good, $1 10; Fair $1. Lower grades down to 70cts. G. P. Fancy, $1 50; good, $1 25; fair, $1 10; Imperial Fancy, $1 40; good, $1 25; fair, $1; Oolong fancy, $1 25; good, 80cts; fair, 60@70c; Souchong fancy, $1 20; good, 90c; fair, 70@80c. Japan Fancy, $1; good, 90c; fair, 75c.

RICE—Choice Carolina, 10c; prime, 9⅜c; good, 9c.

SPICES—Grain Pepper, 22c. Pimento, 17c. Cloves, 20c. Cassia, 55c.

HAY—Is selling from country wagons at $16@23, according to quality and condition. Baled, on wharf, $17@19.

HUSKS—Quoted at 2⅛@2⅜ cts.

HEMP—Rough Kentucky, $175 per ton; dressed, 14 cts per lb.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2,25 per bbl and eastern at $1.75.

MILL FEED—Sales from store, in a jobbing way, at $1,40@1,50 for Bran; $1,65@1,85 for Middlings and $2,50 for oil meal.

OILS—Lard Oil continues dull and weak, and prices lower; we now quote No. 1 Extra at 83@85.

POTATOES—The market is becoming weaker for old crop, under the influence of increased receipts, in connection with the fact that the season is pretty well advanced and holders are more anxious to realize. Quotations may now be given, for small lots, in store, at $1,10@1,15 for western and $1,20@1,25 for Lake Shore Peach Blows. We were reported a sale of 1 car western, on track, at $1, and it was rumored that a car of Lake Shore's had been sold at the same figure. New crop, $5@6 per bbl, as to quality and condition.

PEA NUTS—Quiet and unchanged at 10@10⅜ cts.

PROVISIONS—Market is a shade firmer under the influence of late advices from the west, but, as yet, there is no general advance in prices here. Plain Shoulders, 7@7⅛; ribbed sides, 9; clear sides, 10; canvassed sugar cured shoulders, 10@10⅜; do hams, 14⅜@15; Breakfast Bacon, canvassed 13; Dried Beef, 18@19. Lard, in tcs, 11 cts; in kegs and buckets, 12. Mess Pork, $17,00@17,50.

POULTRY—Dull but unchanged; live Chickens by the coop, at 68@75 cts per pair.

SEEDS—There is little or no inquiry for either Clover or Timothy Seeds and the season may be regarded as over. Flaxseed is scarce and wanted—may be quoted firm at $2,20@2,25.

SUMAC—Sales Tennessee Sumac at 4⅛ cts.

WILLOWS—Sales Kentucky willows at 10

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, June 8, 1871. }

The market continues strong and moderately active and crude has still further advanced, while refined, although firm, is without quotable change; as a rule, when refined advances an ⅛ crude is put up ⅛, and thus the latter is kept higher relatively than the former. Advices from above report considerable activity, principally in the way of making settlements, and these heavy settlements lead some parties to think that the market will be much easier on the first of July than is generally expected. The monthly report in regard to the production of May is looked for with considerable interest, and, as might be expected, the views of operators are very conflicting as to what it will show; the general feeling, however, seems to be that there will not be much difference, as compared with April, one way or the other.

CRUDE.

The operations, as will be seen, were large unusually so, particularly for Pittsburgh delivery.

PITTSBURGH WOOL MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, June 8, 1870. }

The Wool market is now fairly opened and in some sections a considerable quantity has already been sold. Prices seem to rule higher than either the dealer or grower had expected, and higher than the present quotations in the eastern markets will justify—50c per lb is the general asking price by the growers for their clips, while some, owing to the number of buyers in the field, are asking higher prices. We think it a favorable opportunity for growers to realize good prices, as there is no doubt considerable excitement existing in the country districts, and as is generally the case, excitements are generally followed by a lull and reaction, and prices will then drop to their proper level. We quote prices of all grades, in good condition, ranging from 45 to 50c.

The Boston Journal, of Monday, says: The imports or foreign wools at this port are again on the increase. There is at present no little excitement among dealers in this country in regard to the new clip, as under the very light stocks, the market has been stimulated with a material rise in prices, and buyers have gone to the western states in large numbers to secure the first bargains. Some fears are expressed by eastern people, that a too great eagerness to purchase at high rates by the parties who have gone out may lead to heavy importations of woolen goods, and thus ultimately break down the markets, but the prospects of the trade now are very good, the demand from manufacturers being quite active at full prices. Large purchases of foreign wool have recently been made in England for shipment to this country.

The Springfield (Ohio) Republican says: Our dealers are buying large quantities of wool. Foos & Clark have bought, already, about 400,000 pounds, and are paying from 40 to 50 cents. For a choice, well put up article, they pay the latter price. It pays the farmer to see that his wool is well washed and nicely handled.

These gentlemen are buying all the wool they can reach, and are paying cash for the wool offered them.

—William F. Barber, of Castleton, Vt., has sheared twelve Spanish Merino sheep, raised by him, each bearing a year's growth less one day—the total weight being 189⅛ pounds, an average per head of 15 pounds and 13 ounces.

RIVER NEWS.

There is no material change in the stage of water, and as has been the case for some days past, business at the wharf is completely suspended.

The Argosy, recently in the Wheeling trade, has been placed in the Cincinnati and Wheeling trade, as a low water packet.

The tow boat D. T. Lane is to be sold at public auction on the 15th.

In the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis on Monday, Judge Treat gave judgment against the steamer Great Republic and owners, in favor of mariners' wages, &c., that amount to more than the boat is worth.

—A dispatch from Sioux City, says: "The Minor arrived from up the river at 11:30 o'clock to-day, and reports a heavy rise in the river at Yankton, nearly 6 feet in twenty-four hours. She came down ahead of it, making the trip from Yankton to Sioux City, one hundred and seventy-one miles in the unprecedented short time of seven hours and thirty minutes. The river has come up about three feet here to-day, and is still rapidly rising. Reports from up the river say the indications are that this June rise will be one of the highest ever known."

—The Grand Lake No. 2, Capt. Jos. Williams, has made a trip to brag of. She is a towboat, and claims to have set the pegs for the vessels of her class. Here it is in brief: Three days and sixteen hours out from Donaldsonville to Cairo, being three days and a half running time; have come to Donaldsonville, from New Orleans, in six hours, which would be from New Orleans to Cairo in three days and eighteen hours. When that is beat by a towboat we will come in six hours less.

—We clip the following items from the Cincinnati Commercial of Wednesday: Pilots J. N. Whitten and W. J. Gosney, of the towboat Warner, laid up at Antiquity, arrived here yesterday on the R. R. Hudson.... Captain J. L. Rhodes, of Pittsburgh, is still in the city, in good health and as affable and pleasant as in the days of yore.... Captain J. T. Russell, having returned from his brief Western tour, resumed command of the R. R. Hudson yesterday. Captain Russell reports the crop prospects in the "Far West" very flattering.

—Butler county, Missouri, has appropriated $8,000 to improve Black river, from the Arkansas line to Poplar Bluff. They have been trying to improve Black river for about twenty years, and haven't done much good yet, if any. The state appropriated $15,000 in 1870 for the same purpose, and Captain Williams, a well known river man, had a $50,000 contract to clear Black river of obstructions in 1860.

—The St. Paul line and Keokuk line of packets haven't the upper Mississippi all to themselves yet. The Antelope was to leave Dubuque on Tuesday, towing several heavily loaded barges of freight at "cut rates," and the St. Johns and Mollie McPike are constantly running up and down, doing likewise.

—The St. Louis Democrat says: The contracting firm of Durfee & Peck will not require any more boats at this point for the performance of their contract. All the freight yet to be shipped will be shipped on their steamers at Sioux City and way points on the Missouri.

—The coal dealers of Cincinnati are out in a card warning steamboat captains of the danger of passing coal fleets at the speed they are usually in the habit of making, and notifying them that they will be held responsible for any damages that may result from so doing.

—Joe. Baldwin is building a steamer on Black river, Missouri. She is to be named the Bluff City. She will have an excursion, July 4th, on that beautiful stream. The Bluff City, when completed, will be one of the finest little steamers on Black river.

—The clerk of the Rover writes from Cairo under date of 4th: The Rover passed up with 1,000 tuns of ore and 1,000 tuns of pig metal, for Pittsburgh, and will return from Louisville to Cairo for balance of our tow, 5 barges.

—W. W. Wells, clerk of steamer Savanna, was married on Tuesday, last week, in Savanna, Illinois, to Miss Emma Rhodes, daughter of President Rhodes of the Northern Line Packet Company.

—The local inspectors, of Nashville have susyended the license of First Engineer Chas. S. Clements for thirty days from June 30, for subjecting the safety valve to extra weights.

—At "Guyan" the packets report the river 4 feet, at Buffington 3⅛, and to Wheeling 3 feet.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞CONSUMPTION.

Its Cure and its Preventive.

BY J. H. SCHENCK, M.D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death there was no other reason than the neglect of known and indisputably proven means of cure. Those near and dear to family and friends are sleeping the dreamless slumber into which, had they calmly adopted and availed themselves of his wonderfully efficacious medicines, they would not have fallen. Dr. Schenck has in his own case proved that wherever sufficient vitality remains, that vitality, by his medicines and his directions for their use, is quickened into healthful vigor.

In this statement there is nothing presumptuous. To the faith of the invalid is made no representation that is not a thousand times substantiated by living and visible works. The theory of the cure by Dr. Schenck's medicines is as simple as it is unfailing. Its philosophy requires no argument. It is self-assuring, self-convincing.

The Sea-weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are the first two weapons with which the citadel of the malady is assailed. Two-thirds of the cases of consumption originate in dyspepsia and a functionary disordered liver. With this condition the bronchial tubes "sympathize" with the stomach. They respond to the morbification of the liver. Here then comes the culminating result, and the setting in, with all its distressing symptoms of

CONSUMPTION.

The Mandrake Pills are composed of one of Nature's noblest gifts—the Podophillum Peltatum. They possess all the blood-searching, alterative properties of calomel, but unlike calomel, they

"LEAVE NO STING BEHIND."

The work of cure is now beginning. The vitiated and mucuous deposits in the bowels and the alimentary canal are ejected. The liver, like a clock, is wound up. It arouses from its torpidity. The stomach acts responsively, and the patient begins to feel that he is getting, at last,

A SUPPLY OF GOOD BLOOD.

The Sea-weed Tonic, in conjunction with the Pills, permeates and assimilates with the food. Chylification is now progressing without its previous tortures. Digestion becomes painless, and the cure is seen to be at hand. There is no more flatulence, no exacerbation of the stomach. An appetite sets in.

Now comes the greatest Blood Purifier ever yet given by an indulgent father to suffering man. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup comes in to perform its functions and to hasten and complete the cure. It enters at once upon its work. Nature can not be cheated. It collects and ripens the impaired and diseased portions of the lungs. In the form of gatherings, it prepares them for expectoration, and lo! in a very short time the malady is vanquished, the rotten throne that it occupied is renovated and made new, and the patient, in all the dignity of regained vigor, steps forth to enjoy the manhood or womanhood that was GIVEN UP AS LOST.

The second thing is, the patients must stay in a warm room until they get well; it is almost impossible to prevent taking cold when the lungs are diseased, but it must be prevented or a cure cannot be effected. Fresh air and riding out, especially in this section of the country, in the fall and winter season, are all wrong. Physicians who recommend that course lose their patients, if their lungs are badly diseased, and yet, because they are in the house they must not sit down quiet; they must walk about the room as much and as fast as the strength will bear, to get up a good circulation of the blood. The patients must keep in good spirits—be determined to get well. This has a great deal to do with the appetite, and is the great point to gain.

To despair of cure after such evidence of its possibility in the worst cases, and moral certainty in all others, is sinful. Dr. Schenck's personal statement to the Faculty of his own cure was in these modest words:

"Many years ago I was in the last stages of consumption; confined to my bed, and at one time my physicians thought that I could not live a week; then, like a drowning man catching at straws, I heard of and obtained the preparations which I now offer to the public, and they made a perfect cure of me. It seemed to me that I could feel them penetrate my whole system. They soon ripened the matter in my lungs, and I would spit up more than a pint of offensive yellow matter every morning for a long time.

"As soon as that began to subside, my cough, fever, pains and night sweats all began to leave me, and my appetite became so great that it was with difficulty that I could keep from eating too much. I soon gained my strength, and have grown in flesh ever since.

"I was weighed shortly after my recovery," added the Doctor, "then looking like a mere skeleton; my weight was only ninety-seven pounds; my present weight is two hundred and twenty-five (225) pounds, and for years I have enjoyed uninterrupted health."

Dr. Schenck has discontinued his professional visits to New York and Boston. He or his son, Dr. J. H. Schenck, Jr., still continue to see patients at their office No. 15 North Sixth street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Resirometer will be charged $5. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not.

The directions for taking the medicines are adapted to the intelligence even of a child. Follow these directions, and kind Nature will do the rest, excepting that in some cases the Mandrake Pills are to be taken in increased doses; the three medicines need no other accompaniments than the ample instructions that accompany them. First, create appetite. Of returning health hunger is the most welcome symptom. When it comes, as it will come, let the despairing at once be of good cheer. Good blood at once follows, the cough loosens, the night sweat is abated. In a short time both of these morbid symptoms are gone for ever.

Dr. Schenck's medicines are constantly kept in tens of thousands of families. As a laxative or purgative the Mandrake Pills are a standard preparation; while the Pulmonic Syrup, as a cure of coughs and colds, may be regarded as a prophylacteric against consumption in any of its forms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea-weed Tonic $1 50 a bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists and dealers. ap15:p8-MWF

Keep Your Houses Clean,

AND

BY USING THE

Wellman Patent Reflector

STOVE AND GRATE.

Which Stand Without a Rival.

The WELLMAN STOVE is furnished with the "REFLECTOR GRATE," and possesses all the advantages of an open fire place; it is specially adapted to houses where the flues are too small to admit a grate, and affords all the comforts of a CHEERFUL OPEN FIRE.

1st. As a radiator of heat it has double the intensity of any other grate.

2d. It is unquestionably the most cleanly—no soot or ashes escaping into the room—which, in the ordinary Grate, proves so detrimental to carpets and furniture.

3d. The combustion is perfect. There is no waste in unburnt cinders—every ounce of the fuel is so completely consumed, that nothing remains but the finest ashes.

4th. As an economizer of fuel—there being an actual saving of at least 25 per cent.

5th. It is highly ornamental.

6th. It is set so deep in the chimney, that it is much safer, and also less liable to puff in windy weather.

7th. A slight motion of the shaker cleanses the entire fire, and causes it to burn with great brilliancy and intensity of heat.

Samples may be seen and references had at the store of W. BARNES, corner of 3d avenue and Market street, Pittsburgh; W. F. GOODWIN, 66 Federal street, Allegheny, or at the FOUNDRY, corner Duquesne Way and Water street, Pittsburgh.

Parties who are building, or who contemplate changing Grates, are respectfully requested to examine "The Wellman." Satisfaction guaranteed in all cases.

HOME NEWS.

Persons leaving the city for summer resorts can have the Daily GAZETTE mailed to them by leaving their addresses at our counting room.

Exhibition by Pupils of Deaf and Dumb School.—We had the pleasure of witnessing this very interesting Entertainment at Library Hall last night. The programme comprised an excellent variety of interesting performances by the pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Public School and several adult Mutes. Mr. Murray translated, for the benefit of the audience, the sign-language used by each performer. The proceedings were interspersed with most excellent music by Prof. S. J. Byers' Quartette Club. The Hall was well filled—in fact, uncomfortably filled, owing to the heat of the evening—and all expressed themselves as highly pleased with the proficiency of the pupils and the excellent character of the entertainment.

Licenses and Taxes.

It is not generally considered a pleasant duty to pay taxes, but it is nevertheless one that must be performed; and it can be done much more agreeably now, and money can be saved, by paying State and county tax during present month. Five per cent. is allowed off in July, but much wear and tear of temper and clothes can be saved by dropping into the County Treasurer's office before the rush and jam of July commences.

Business men, too, should note that their State Licenses must be taken out before the first of July. If not attended to, then the law compels the Treasurer to put all remaining unpaid in the hands of an Alderman, when the officer's costs sometimes exceed the amount of the license.

Brokers of all descriptions, brewers, distillers, billiard and bagatelle keepers throughout the cities and county should call at the County Treasurer's; also, merchants in the boroughs and townships of the county. Merchants doing business in either of the cities should call at the respective City Treasurer's.

The South Side.

A pleasant affair took place on last evening, at the residence of Col. J. W. Ballantine, one of the Republican candidates for Assembly Since this is the first time that Temperanceville, has been thus honored, the citizens determined to celebrate it in a fitting manner. About half past nine o'clock, preceded by a band they marched up the main street and succeeded in completely surprising the enemy, whose only excuse was that he had neglected to throw out pickets that evening. He thanked them in a brief speech, and concluded by inviting them into the parlor. Refreshments were ordered, and with music and speeches all went "merry as a marriage bell."

Both Republicans and Democrats were present and many comrades who had gone through the war together. Among them were Ervin, M'Munn, Hollingshead, Taylor, Dorrington, Patterson, Grounds, Burt, Bryant, Coffin, McKee, McDaniel and others. The meeting was almost a re-union. The company remained to a late hour and then dispersed with three rousing cheers for Col. Ballantine and the whole ticket.

MR. OGDEN'S DEATH.

A Painful and Distressing Casualty.

This community was greatly shocked at the announcement of the death by drowning at Attica, Ohio, of Mr. Wm. N. Ogden, a highly respected merchant and citizen of this city, which painful event took place on Tuesday afternoon. It seems that the deceased, who had ten minutes before the accident sold a bill of goods for his house to a customer and left in good spirits, had entered his buggy and driven towards a creek bridge. Perhaps wishing to cool his horse, he drove down to the edge of the water where it got suddenly deep, and the horse and buggy at once sunk out of sight and did not come up again. A little boy eleven years of age was the only witness to the accident. Mr. Ogden was thrown over the dashboard of the vehicle as it went down. He floated for a moment or two in the water and the boy hurriedly tore from a fence a rail and reached it out to him, telling him not to let go until other assistance could be secured. Mr. Ogden held on for a few moments and then suddenly appeared to lose his presence of mind and sank to rise no more. It is presumed that the fright brought on an appoplectic fit, as he was a very large and portly man, liable to such an attack. His body was recovered within an hour afterwards, and brought to this city to his residence on Third avenue near Ross street, from whence it will be buried with Masonic rites, this afternoon at two o'clock. He leaves a wife and five small children to mourn his untimely end.

Mr. Ogden was of late an occasional contributor to these columns of sketches of travel. He was a man eminently worthy of respect and was universally esteemed in this community. Temperate, sober and industrious, a kind and consistent husband and father, a true and faithful friend and an upright citizen he combined all in his character to render his sudden passing away the source of profound sorrow, to many friends and acquaintances. He was a native of England and about forty-two years of age. He represented the Second ward for several terms in our City Select Council and was quite an active Republican in all late campaigns. He was one of the prime movers for the establishment in our city of the paid Fire Department, and for his efforts in that direction his name was placed on the central alarm bell at the Court House, and he was presented as a mark of respect and gratitude for his labors with a magnificent and valuable gold watch by a number of his fellow-citizens.

POLICE NOTES.

Brief Mention of Criminalities Yesterday.

John McGinniss and John Crowley having had a difficulty on decoration day, Alderman Strain has been called in to act as judicial peacemaker, and will act in that capacity today. Crowley is prosecutor.

Mary Billib says she objects to being shoved around by two men, Wolfinger and Kohimeyer, and hence has appealed to Alderman Neeper who sent a constable to Mount Washington to arrest the men.

Martin's grocery store, corner Centre avenue and Green street was broken open the other night and several boxes of tobacco and cigars and glasses of jelly carried off.

A member of the theatrical fraternity here has discovered that his wife has eloped with two men, professed friends, to New York. She disappeared Tuesday evening, taking with her all the household goods she could get away. The disconsolate husband has sent officers in pursuit.

John Fox, will be found at the workhouse for the next ninety days. He was sent there yesterday by Justice Ammon.

Yesterday morning officer Mulvaney, recaptured "Chick" Conner, who had escaped from the House of Refuge on Decoration day. He had been consigned to that institution for participating in the robbery of Fiaths clothing store, on Liberty street. He was sent back during the afternoon.

James McVay was before Alderman Thomas on a charge of surety of the peace preferred by Ann McVay. She alleges that defendant threatened to do her serious bodily injury. A warrant was issued, and defendant held to bail for a hearing.

Mrs. McVay also charged John McVay with surety of the peace alleging that he threatened to kill her. He was arrested and held to bail for a hearing.

A. Myers also made an information before Alderman Thomas charging E. Bruce with disorderly conduct. Complainant alleges that defendant acted in a disorderly manner and called her hard names. The matter was finally amicably adjusted and the suit withdrawn.

Mary A. Fox also charged Mrs. McClason with disorderly conduct. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant came toward her with a brick and threatened to do her injury. A hearing was held in the case which developed much bad feeling among the parties. The case was finally dismissed.

John Crowley made information before Alderman Strain, charging John McGinnis with assault and battery. McGinnis was arrested, and in default of bail, held for trial.

M. R Wise made information before the same officer against Henry Griffen, for aiding Thomas King to secret property in order to defraud his creditors. A warrant for Henry has been made out.

Police items are scarce in Allegheny. The Alleghenians seem disposed to keep the peace since they have been ruled out of the Assembly. Mayor Callow had two minor cases before him yesterday morning. "Only this and nothing more."

Anton Rutger preferred a charge against Richard Bauman for perjury. It seems that Richard's testimony in a civil case recently, in which Rutger was one of the principals, is the ground upon which he is charged with breaking the ninth commandment. He has been arrested.

A fistic encounter; with regard to the merits of a horse, between Henry Holland and Henry O'Neill, resulted in the arrest and imprisonment for a hearing, upon a charge of assault and battery, of the latter.

The notorious Jim Reed and another of "Afric's sable sons," attended the picnic yesterday afternoon, and got in a rather hilarious condition. They drove through the streets at a fearful pace, and were almost the death of a lady at the crossing of Diamond alley and Smithfield street. Officer Kelly witnessed the affair, and arrested them both for reckless driving.

ALLEGHENY COUNCILS.

Regular Meeting Last Night—The Board of Health Matter Discussed—No Decision yet—Monthly Reports and General Business.

Allegheny Councils held a regular semi-monthly meeting last night.

Select Council.

JAMES M'BRIER............President
J. R. AXLEY............Clerk

President McBRIER called this branch to order at fifteen minutes past eight o'clock, when the roll was called, the following members answering: Messrs. Hall, Huckenstine, Kirkpatrick, Matthias, Megraw, Moul, Omsler, Patterson, Heagy, Peterson, Phillips, Reineman, Riddle, Schoyer, Thompson, Wettach, Wittmer, McBrier.

On motion, the reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

Mr. PATTERSON presented a petition from citizens on Stockton avenue asking for the paving of that street with the Storme pavement. Referred to Street Committee.

The President read an ordinance from Common Council, fixing a license fee for itinerant venders of nostrums, &c.. C. C. adopted the ordinance, S. C. concured.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Mr. Phillips presented the report of the Committee on Police, presented an ordinance for the establishment of a Board of Health for Allegheny.

The report was accepted.

Mr. Phillips then called up the ordinance and suggested that as it was a matter of great importance, a joint session of councils to consider, it might be expedient that the matter might go through at once.

The President stated that Councils in any event, would have to adopt the ordinance in separate session, and a joint session was hardly necessary.

Mr. PHILLIPS then read an ordinance, a lengthy document, which provided for the establishment of a Board of Health as soon after the passage of the ordinance as possible; the Board to consist of one member from each ward, and the organization to have the same powers and authority as similar Boards in Pittsburgh and other cities, the Board having control of all matters relating to the improvement of the sanitary condition of the city.

After the reading of the ordinance, Mr. MEGRAW moved the adoption of the ordinance.

Mr. HALL wasn't prepared to adopt the paper so suddenly. It was an important matter, and he thought the members should have it before them in some shape beside hearing it read once.

Mr. PHILLIPS—Well, we can consider it seriatim, but I hope then that the members will stay here until twelve o'clock, so that we have it passed to-night. It is a very important matter—more so than any business I know, now before us. The newspapers have all been urging this matter for several weeks and the people I think want such an organization.

Mr. HALL thought the matter should be carefully considered. He didn't know he was opposed to it, but he wanted first to know what it contained. It was to cost some money and should receive attention.

Mr. PHILLIPS said the ordinance would have been printed but that the committee were unable to get it ready in time. It was to cost some money—$1,000 to start it. He was glad to see that the wheel horse of the Finance Committee had mentioned this fact.

Mr. MEGRAW thought the passage of the ordinance could do no harm. It was necessary to have such an organization and if they found that some of the regulations were not exactly right they could easily make a change.

Mr. RIDDLE thought the matter was so important that they should make haste slowly. He favored the idea of anything that would improve the sanitary condition of the city, but he was not prepared to vote blindly upon the measure. He did not believe that there was so much sickness in the community. He had made inquiries and knew of but one case of a contagious disease. He moved to lay the ordinance over until the next meeting, and have it printed in the meantime and a copy furnished each member.

After some further discussion the yeas and nays were called upon the motion to lay over, with the following result:

Yeas.—Messrs. Hall, Huckenstine, Moul, Omsler, Patterson, Riddle, McBrier.—7.

Nays.—Messrs. Heagy, Kirkpatrick, Matthias, Megraw, Peterson, Phillips, Reineman, Schoyer, Wittmer.—9.

MR. PHILLIPS moved to consider the ordinance seriatim.

MR. RIDDLE contended that they had the law now in the city to abate all nuisances, and that the Mayor was the proper person to have these laws enforced. He did not believe that the Board of Health would go about seeing that dead dogs were hauled to the river, and sundry matters of that kind attended to. They would simply delegate the duty to some officer—now the Councils could just as well delegate that honor without doing it through a Board of Health.

The President thought the city police could attend to the matter. There were forty-four of them, and he did not see why they were not instructed in the matter.

Mr. PHILLIPS—Pittsburgh has one hundred and fifty police—what's the use of a Board of Health there? Philadelphia has five hundred—what's the use of a Board of Health there?

Mr. RIDDLE—Why no use.

Mr. PHILLIPS—Well, I wouldn't like to admit such obstinacy.

Mr. PATTERSON thought the matter should be laid over. He did not think a Board of Health necessary. The difficulty was that somebody needed stirring up. He thought the Police Committee ought to stir up the police; but they preferred to get nine men to do that for them, and then they would keep stirring up those nine men. If the police couldn't do this he would discharge them all.

PRESIDENT—And hire them over again.

Mr. PATTERSON—Some of them I would and some I wouldn't.

Mr. RIDDLE again moved to lay the ordinance over.

Mr. SCHOYER moved to amend by laying it over for printing and consideration at a special meeting next Thursday evening.

Mr. MEGRAW didn't see the use of laying it over. It could as well be considered at once. They would spend half as much in the printing as the Health Officer's salary would amount to. He believed in having it considered seriatim as read by the President.

Finally the motion prevailed to lay it over until the special meeting and have it printed.

THE STREET DEPARTMENT.

They reported adversely to granting of the petition for the changing of the grade of Union street.

They also reported that they had no authority for granting the petition of John Donaldson for a reduction of assessment for construction of the Western avenue sewer.

In relation to the request of the Gas Company to allow them to lay their pipes under the sidewalks of South avenue, the committee thought that the Gas Company had the legal right to lay their pipes there. The committee recommended that the Gas Company be requested to lay their pipes just outside of the sidewalk.

The committee reported a resolution authorizing the abatement of the assessment of F. Simpson for construction of Western avenue sewer one half, because the sewer runs through his private property. The resolution also authorized the payment of the other half of the assessment out of the Sewer Fund.

The following ordinances were reported:

For opening of Buena Vista street.

For passage way to connect Irwin avenue and North avenue south of railroad.

For sewer on School street.

For grading, &c., of Rush alley.

For extension of Spring Garden avenue sewer from its present terminus to the river.

The accompanying ordinances were all passed finally, with the exception of the ordinance for the opening of a passage way from North avenue to Irwin street, which was read once and laid over. The ordinance for opening of Buena Vista street was also read once and laid over.

Also, report of the viewers on the opening of Western avenue. Received.

Mr. HALL presented the report of the Finance Committee. The committee reported a resolution authorizing the Controller to pay Henry Lutz amount due in payment of a sewer constructed by him.

The report was received and resolution passed finally.

He also presented the monthly report of the Controller, who reported the expenditures of the city, of which the following is a

RECAPITULATION.

No. 1. Salaries	$1,179 14
No. 6. Fire Department	2,198 97

The report was received and the several bills ordered to be paid.

A petition was read from the Directors of the Library Association, requesting councils to allow them the use of the room now occupied by their Library in the City Building. It was referred to the Committee on City Property.

Mr HALL called up the ordinance authorizing the changing the name of Arch street to Beaver street. It was lost.

Mr. HUCKENSTIEN, a petition for flag stone crossings on First street. Referred to Street Committee.

The report of the Committee on Poor Farm plans of the new Poor House approved on Common Council, was taken up.

Mr. RIDDLE moved to non-concur in the action of Common Council.

He also presented the following:

WHEREAS, It is reported that the Board of Directors of the Poor of the city of Allegheny have authorized and let contracts for the proposed new building for the accommodation of the poor, without Councils first having approved of the plan or contracts as required in the act of Assembly authorizing the sale of the old house, &c.; therefore,

Resolved, That said Directors of the Poor be, and they are hereby respectfully requested to delay further work on the said building and to advertise in the official papers of the city for thirty days for proposals for erecting said building according to the plans and specifications as prepared by Messrs. Barr & Moser, architects (said plans and specifications to include all labor and materials to furnish the building complete), and report the lowest and best bid to Councils for their approval; also,

Resolved, That said Directors of the Poor are hereby respectfully notified that members of Council are prohibited by act of Assembly from contracting or doing any work for the city.

The last resolution was, on motion, withdrawn.

MR. RIDDLE stated in presenting the resolutions that he was influenced to do so, by hearing persons on the street accusing Councilmen of having an interest in those plans. He would like to know what the cost would be.

MR. HEAGEY from Committee on Poor Farm, stated for Mr. R's. information that the architects had told him the building would cost $100,000.

MR. RIDDLE then stated that he had been told by another party, that if the city got it for $200,000, they would be getting it cheap. He had heard that contracts had already been given out on this work, of which no report had been made to Councils, as should have been according to law.

There was a great deal of discussion at this point which wound up by Mr. Megraw stating that he believed all the talk was driving against him. He stated that one of the Poor Directors of Allegheny had come to him and asked him to give a bid for the stone work for the new Poor House. He stated that he believed that he had no right to take such a contract, as he was a Councilman. The gentleman stated that it made no difference that the Poor Board was a separate body from Councils, and he could take the contract. The Board soon after advertised, and he gave in a bid, and the contract was given to him as his bid was the lowest, and he could prove it by his figures. He believed he was not aware that he could not take the contract, and he believed that he could. If he had known this he would not be seated where he now is. He could resign just as well as any other man, and he could just as easily return to his seat. He was proud of that. He would not take the contract over again for those figures, as he had enough work to keep him busy.

He said if he was wrong he would not sit in the seat where he was, and he was willing to give up his contract to-night. He had taken the contract through ignorance.

MR. RIDDLE said that Mr. Megraw stated that he was driving him, but it was not so. He considered it his duty to do as he did.

After some further discussion, the resolution was amended by adding "with the exception of the stone work, brick and excavating work done, those bids having been let under a misapprehension."

The ayes and nays were called on the amendment. The result was, ayes 10, nays 5. Therefore the amendment was carried.

The ayes and nays were then called on the resolution amended. The call resulted as follows: ayes, 9; nays, 6.

As soon as the President had announced the vote, a motion was made to adjourn, which was carried.

Mr. MEGRAW sent up his resignation, but it was not received at the desk until after adjournment.

Common Council.

This branch convened at eight o'clock, and was called to order by the President.

The roll was then called, when a quorum of members was found to be present.

The minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

The amendment was lost, when the motion of Mr. Hunker was put and carried.

Mr. VOEGTLY presented a petition for a gas lamp on Liberty street between Madison avenue and Chestnut street. Referred to Gas Committee.

The report was received and resolutions adopted.

Mr. HASTINGS, chairman of the committee on wharfs and landings, presented a report with a resolution, authorizing the construction of a railway from present terminus of Allegheny avenue to the Ohio river. In relation to the communication of Brig. Gen. Merrill, concerning the receipts of Allegheny companies, taking measures for the improvement of the rivers, the committee recommended that no action be taken in the matter at present.

Mr. MCNEILL inquired why the committee decided not to take any action on the communication of Mr. Merrill.

Mr. HASTINGS replied that the appropriation to the wharves and landings was only $6,000, and as this improvement would cost half a million dollars, Allegheny could not bear the expense.

Mr. MCNEILL said it was not the intention that Allegheny City should bear all the expense. Pittsburgh and perhaps the United States Government would stand the greater part of the expense. He then moved that this part of the report be referred back to the committee with instruction to consult with these parties. Carried.

The monthly reports of the Street and Finance Committees were presented and received.

The barge "Alice," belonging to the same club, was fortunately near by at the time, and the crew of the "Naiad" was taken in, and rowed safely to the boat house without further accident. The crews had been spending a pleasant evening at the "Belvidere," near Sharpsburg, and the above incident only added spice (with some water) to the enjoyment of the evening. We could not find after investigation, which of the members were up the river on Wednesday evening.

THE COMMISSIONERS' CASES.

Pleas of Guilty Entered—The Suspense ended—A Frank Confession—Sentences to be Pronounced on Saturday—The Legal Points Raised—How Will they be Punished?

Well, the great agony is over, and the cases of the Commissioners—or rather ex-Commissioners—have been settled without a trial. The defendants themselves accepted the situation, and thus relieved the Court of this formality, although a trial was anxiously desired by many, among whom some of the legal counsel themselves could be numbered.

The cases were set down for yesterday morning, and the interest taken in the affair was apparent from the large crowd which had collected in the rotunda and vicinity of the Criminal Court Room, even before the doors were open. The eager attendants were gratified at half past nine o'clock, by an admission into the interior and quickly filled up all the available space.

The counsel in the cases had not yet made an appearance and the impatient crowd were entertained with the roll call and other routine business; the appearance of a jury in the box, caused a shadow of gloom to settle about those who feared that after all they were to be disappointed, and another case occupy the attention of Court, Judge Stowe occupied the bench alone.

In the meantime, the absence of the counsel was understood by the initiated who had knowledge of a consultation going on in the Commissioners' office near at hand. Before the clerks had finished the routine business this conference was ended and the Court Room. It then appeared as they ranged themselves around the counsels' table that the prosecution was represented by District Attorney Pearson, Hon. H. B Swoope, U. S. Attorney, and Messrs. Bruce and Negley. For the defence there were Messrs. W. D. Moore, S. H. Geyer, W. C. Moreland, and Jacob H. Miller.—Mr. Swartzwelder who had been engaged being absent.

The spectators next turned their attention to an inspection of the Court room for but in vain, neither the familiar countenance of Neely, or the bland visage of McGee could be seen in the crowd of lawyers, and witnesses, and journalists which filled the space inside the bar. The interesting mystery in which the matter was enveloped was becoming even more impenetrable.

But the suspense was of short duration. As the clerks finished the roll-call of the jurors, District Attorney Pearson with a small bundle of papers in his hand asked leave to

CALL UP THE CASES:

"Commonwealth vs. Jonathan Neely and W. H. McGhee." Being granted permission he said:

"May it please the Court, in the indictment against Jonathan Neely, the defendant, enters a plea of guilty as to the first, second, third and fifth counts of the indictment, and I ask permission to enter a nolle pros. as to the remaining counts, the fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth. May it also please the Court in reference to the indictment against William H. McGhee, the defendant, pleads guilty as to the first, second, third and ninth counts, and I will ask for a nolle pros. as to the remaining counts, the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth."

The Court took charge of the papers and granted the nolle pros. on the counts named as asked for by the District Attorney, directing the clerks to make the proper endorsement and entry.

The business was disposed of so quickly, and with so little excitement, that few outside the box rightly understood the meaning of the proceedings until they heard as pronounced by the District Attorney, when the light began to break upon them. This sudden ending was not expected, yet it seemed to create surprise, and a murmur of discussion commenced outside the bar, which was quickly checked, however, by the officers of the Court.

FIXING SENTENCE DAY.

After the pleas had been entered, Judge Stowe asked the counsel if they had anything to say in reference to the time of sentence.

Mr. Miller (counsel for Neely)—If the Court please, we are agreed to Saturday. We suppose you would defer it to that time.

Judge Stowe—That will suit the Court. There is a serious question as to what should be the punishment in the cases. It is a question of some importance as to what act is in force. If it be the act of 1856, it is important for the defendants to have the benefit of that, as the punishment is much less severe under it than under the act of 1860. The Court is desirous of having a little time to consider it. While I have a very decided opinion myself, and know that the other Judges share it with me to a certain extent, yet it is proper that we should have a consultation.

Mr. Marshall—I hope your Honor will remember that a case is fixed for argument on Saturday morning, as it is a matter of considerable importance, and it is to be hoped that no other business will interfere with it.

Judge Stowe—That will not necessarily interfere.

From Mr. Swoope, leading private counsel for the prosecution, I understand there will be no comment. They have fixed the responsibility of deciding upon the Court, and we will only have that duty to perform.

Mr. Swoope—That's it; we, as counsel for the prosecution, believe now that our duty terminates. We have brought this matter to the attention of the Court, the defendants have plead guilty and we do not desire to push matters further. Our duty is done and the further administration of the law becomes the duty of the Court.

Judge Stowe—The Court accepts the responsibility without hestitation. If any argument should be necessary, sentence can be deferred until another time, but at present the order is that the defendants appear for sentence next Saturday morning.

So the cases were ended and the Court proceeded with routine business, while the majority of the spectators retired.

WHAT THEY ADMIT.

Previous to the final determination to plead guilty on the part of the defendants, it was supposed that they, if giving up the cases at all, would simply plead nolle contendre but this desire seems to have been thwarted by the expressed determination of the prosecution not to allow that record to be made without a struggle. They claimed that the plea must be "guilty" and then the matter rest with the Court, or "not guilty," and a full trial. So the obnoxious word was at last agreed upon. Had it been otherwise though and the defendants plead nolle contindre that would have availed nothing. As a technical admission of guilt it is perhaps not so objectional to a defendant as a pank confession! but the punishment would not have been mitigated.

In a case of that kind recently tried, His Honor, remarked to defendant who had entered the plea, and claimed it was only techincal admission, not a confession of moral obloquy, "Why you in that, confess to everything, and will be punished accordingly."

The indictments against the ex-Commissioners embrace nine counts each. Each indictment contained nine counts, each count charging the defendants with accepting bribes from four different individuals for the granting of licenses to sell liquor.

MR. NEELY'S DELINQUENCIES.

Mr. Neely plead guilty to the following counts: First—receiving on April 1st, $15 from Wm. Arenholtz, of East Birmingham; second—receiving $25 from the same party on May 3d; third—receiving $25 from same individual on May 3d; fourth—receiving from Louis Schmidt of East Birmingham, on May 2d, $100. By his plea, therefore he admits having accepted bribes to the amount of $165. The counts to which the District Attorney entered a nolle pros. charged the defendant with receiving bribes as follows: From Joseph Diestele, of East Birmingham, on April 2, $190; from John Roth, of Birmingham, May 2, $100; from Jacob Deitz, of Birmingham on April 29, $100; from John Eichelay, of Pittsburgh, on May 5, $100; from Abram Moore, of Port Perry, on May 5, $100.

MR. MCGHEE'S SHORTCOMING'S.

By his plea, Mr. McGee admits that he accepted bribes amounting to eighty-five dollars from Frank Anderson, of the First ward, as follows: April 20th, twenty dollars; May 5th, twenty-five dollars; and on the same day forty dollars. He also pleads guilty to receiving on the 28th of April last one hundred dollars from James O'Rourke, of the First ward, Pittsburgh. The other five counts, as to which a nolle pros. was entered, charged him with receiving bribes as follows: From Charles Quinn, Pittsburgh, on April 24th, $100; from Theodore Smith, of West Pittsburgh, on May 4th, $100; from Henry Williard, of the Second ward, Pittsburgh, on May 2d $100; from Owen Corcoran, Fifth ward, Pittsburgh, on April 24th $100; from Alex. Scott, Pittsburgh, on May 4th $100.

THE LEGAL QUESTION RAISED.

The legal question alluded to by Judge Stowe arises in this way: In 1856 the legislature enacted a general license law, and in it provided for the appointment, by the judges of the District Court, of three citizens to act as a license board in Allegheny county. The act contained a special section which provided that if any member of the board accepted a bribe, he should be punished "by a fine not less than $100 nor more than $500, and suffer imprisonment not less than one month nor more than three months." In 1858, this board of licensers was abolished, and the County Auditors were constituted a license board. In 1861 the office of County Auditor was abolished, and it was provided that the duties which had been performed by them as a board of licensers should thereafter be discharged by the Court of Quarter Sessions. But as this made the labors of the court too onerous, in 1867, an act was passed providing that the County Commissioners should constitute the license board, with the same authority that had been vested in the Court of Quarter Sessions.

In the meantime the criminal laws of the Commonwealth were all revised, and in 1860 were embodied in the acts known as

THE "PENAL CODE."

The first act defined crimes and their punishment, while the second prescribed the mode of criminal procedure. By the 48 section of the first act it was provided that if "any officer of this Commonwealth" should accept a bribe to influence his behaviour in office, he shall be punished, on conviction, by a fine not exceeding $1,000, and by imprisonment by separate and solitary confinement at labor not exceeding five years. By this act all minimums of punishment were abolished.

By the criminal procedure act, all parts of the criminal laws of the State, so far as the same are altered or supplied by the penal code, are repealed.

The question, therefore, to be determined by the court is, whether these men are to be sentenced under the act of 1856, or under the general section of the penal code, the latter necessitating imprisonment in the Penitentiary. The whole matter seems to resolve itself into whether or not county commissioners are "officers of this commonwealth." If they are, it would seem that they are not liable to the penalty provided by the penal code, because in acting a license board they act ex officio AS COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

The authority is not conferred upon the men, but vested in the office, so that when a man is elected commissioner, he becomes merely a member of the license board. Are county commissioners officers of the commonwealth?

In England, from which we derive our law and institution, all offices were "in the King," and head of him. By the charter, William Penn was vested with the power to organize a government and uphold offices.

In 1682 he divided the province into three counties and, as Governor, appointed officers for them. By his second frame of government he delegated a part of his power to a provincial council and a general assembly. In 1785 it was provided by enactment that Commissioner and other officers should be elected, and the returns sent to the Secretary of the Supreme Executive Council. When the Constitution was adopted, 28th September, 1776, and the Commonwealth came into power, an act was passed continuing all the previous laws and officers. Thus in its origin the office of County Commissioner was a State office, and after the establishment of the Commonwealth he became an "officer of the Commonwealth."

It seems also evident that they are officers of the Commonwealth, from the character of the duties they have to discharge. They levied and collected the State tax; they sat as a board of appeal from the assessments; they are, ex officio, the appraisers of lands on which purchase money is due the Commonwealth; they are official visitors of the State prisons; they determine who are and who are not liable to military duty, and report to the Adjutant General, and they are required to account to the Secretary of the Commonwealth for monies paid to support the Criminal Courts. All of these are purely State duties—discharged for the State exclusively.

But the question would seem to have been settled by the highest court in the commonwealth. In the case of Riddle in the county of Bedford, 6 Sergeant, and Rawle, 389, it was decided that the county Treasurer was an officer of the commonwealth, and in a case 2 Rawle page 139, this was extended to County Commissioner. They are also held to be "public officers," in the case of Hummel & Bishop, 8. Watts, page 432.

But if neither act was in force, the offence would be punishable at common law. As public officers they are liable to indictment for accepting a bribe, and also as members of a license board. This whole question was discussed at length in the case of Com vs. Mc Cook, which was tried at Harrisburg, by Judge Elaven, in 1846. In an exhaustive opion on the whole subject, it was decided that was liable to indictment at common law for accepting a bribe.

It is certainly of grave importance to the community that they should be protected, by the rigorous enforcement of the laws, from the consequenc of official corruption. For that, the pepole look with confidence to an upright and impartial judiciary, and we are confident they will not be disappointed.

EDUCATIONAL.

Laying of the Corner Stone of the Pennsylvania Female Seminary—The Ceremonies Last Evening.

Our readers have received full accounts through our columns at different times of the establishment of the Pennsylvania Female College, its beautiful location at Roup's Station, P. R. R., and its efficient management, both as to the Board of Trustees and the Faculty of Instruction. We have also noticed the fact that an extensive addition was being made to the already large building of the Seminary. Last evening was the time set for laying the corner stone of this extension. A special car had been chartered and was attached to the Johnstown accommodation, which left the Union Depot at 4:20 P. M. Quite a large number of ladies and gentlemen took seats in this car in order to attend the ceremony. At the station they were met by a number of carriages, in which most of the party found seats. Arrived at the college the company were allowed some minutes to look over the beautiful grounds and handsome buildings, after which they assembled on an impromptu platform, which had been placed upon the foundation of the new building, to witness

THE CEREMONIES.

At half past five Dr. Howard called the meeting to order, after which Rev. John G. Brown, D. D., led in a fervent appeal to the Throne of Grace. Rev. W. T. Beatty, Secretary of the Board of Trustees then read the following list of the articles to be deposited in the corner stone:

Copy of preliminary pamphlet issued previous to the organization of the Board.

Copy of First Prospectus.

Copy of Charter and By-Laws.

A list of the Officers and Standing Committees.

Names of the President and Vice President of the United States, and the Governor of Pennsylvania.

Names of Faculty, Instructors and Assistant Instructors of the Seminary.

Roll of students at present in attendance.

Specimens of fractional currency of present issue—also one dollar in United States currency.

A programme of the days proceedings.

Copy of Presbyterian Banner, date of June 7, 1871.

Copy of United Presbyterian, date of June 8, 1871.

Copies of Daily Gazette, Commercial, Dispatch, Chronicle and Leader of yesterday.

A telegram to posterity:

"Pennsylvania Female College to posterity, greeting, with best wishes for all similar enterprises for all time to come."

Circulars Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Impress of college seal

Programme of exhibition of Deaf and Dumb Institution last evening.

After the list had been read the articles were deposited in the stone by Dr. Howard.

The audience was then addressed in an eloquent and able manner by Rev. Samuel J. Fisher, whose remarks were listened to throughout with profound attention and interest by the assemblage.

Rev. Rob Roy McNulty then read the poem, of which the following is a copy:

THE POEM.

I.

Let the fires of the Forges burn low,
And the thunders of industry cease;
Let the swart striker pause in his blow;
And the hour be an hour of all peace.

II.

Lay the stone—set it firm—make it lasting,
For a Nation's one hope resteth here,
In the scowl of a tempest o'ercasting
All Heaven—a night draweth near!

III.

Is it judgment that cometh, and doubting
We see but the earthquake and flood?
And the "thunder of Captains and shouting,"
The thunder-shod footsteps of God?

IV.

For the true and the good wrong consumeth;
And the death follows hard on the birth;
Ah, now! peradventure, Christ cometh,
Shall He find still a faith on the earth?

V.

While philosophy—one with the scoffer—
Would feed men, with hunger—faith dead:
While God scorning science would offer
A stone in the place of the bread:

VI.

While from Council and Senate hath vanished
Astrae—and fraud rules the hour:
And the last Aristides is banished
And the Cleon is seated in power.

VII.

While Capital stands with bare sabre
And foot on the neck of the poor,
And the hope and the manhood of labor
Shall die, is the cry:—Is there cure?

VIII.

Through court and through mart and through college
The grand truth is working at length,—
There's a purity wiser than knowledge,
There's a righteousness stronger than strength.

IX.

And though pride unto pride hath erected
The temple of State and the tower,
God, again, what the builders rejected,
Uplifteth in honor and power.

X.

And in women unshackled—the token
That justice, faith, truth are to reign:
That the bow shall be shiftless and broken,
The sceptre cast aside and the chain.

XI.

That no more to the loves and soft languors
Is fair Amaryllis to slave,
While wrongs front her impotent angers,
But the sword shall strike and shall save.

XII.

And her virtue—the Esan—the Nero
The traitor—shall blast with its light,
Like the shield of the fabled Ruggero,
Its lustre shall be for her might.

XIII.

Then at last from the deathful reposing
Human Hope shall awake to God's day:
And the stone its cold sepulchre closing
The angels of God roll away.

XIV.

Then the nation shall gird for high duty
And live to the purpose of God:
And the siren man has kissed but her beauty
Shall share with him Balance and Rod.

After the reading of the poem, Messrs. Judge Veech, Dr. John Douglass, Hon. Robert McKnight, and Dr. King, were called upon for impromptu addresses, and the audience were delighted with the pithy, instructive and highly entertaining remarks of these gentlemen. Dr. Howard, whose name had appeared upon the programme as one of the speakers, was called for; the Dr. declined making a speech, on the ground that he had already spoken a half dozen times.

Dr. Black, the worthy President of the College, then made a few appropriate remarks, which he closed by stating that a number of the ladies had been busy preparing refreshments for the inner man, of which the company were desired to partake as soon as they finished their meeting.

On motion the meeting immediately adjourned to the refreshment room where they found that had been prepared. All the delicacies of the season had been provided in abundance and the young ladies discharged their duties of dispensing the good things in a manner that was highly gratifying to all who partook of them and reflected the highest praise on the fair waiters. All were unanimous in returning thanks to the good people who provided the excellent collation.

Dr. Black and his excellent lady also deserve the thanks of all present, for their kindness and attention. Ample provisions had been made for the wants of the reporters, who have seldom been accommodated as they were on this occasion.

We owe thanks also to many of the "nursing fathers" of the institution for the favors shown us—to so many in fact that we can but make a general acknowledgement.

The new building will be erected at a cost of about $25,000. It will be an imposing structure and will reflect credit upon all concerned in its construction—its beauty being rivaled only the handsome grounds upon which it is being erected.

The friends of the Institution have our best wishes for the continued success, and prosperity of their noble and praiseworthy enterprise—an enterprise which is an honor not alone to our smoke-clouded and busy city but which reflects credit upon our entire State.

THE BREWERS' COUNCIL.

Second Day's Session.

The Congress was called to order yesterday morning at the appointed hour. The Chairman, Mr. Henry Clausen, called the meeting to order, and a number of delegates who arrived since yesterday handed in their credentials, and were admitted to seats.

Mr. Louis Schade was then introduced, and addressed the Congress. He concluded, reading a paper in English on the brewing of beer from the earliest days. The paper contains many interesting statements connected with the business of brewing beer. The speaker said the present unjust tax was imposed by Congress, but they had no idea of the amount of beer brewed in the country. He called on the Commissioner, General Pleasanton, who, being a gentleman of education, had given him all the information in his possession. The general regret is to be compelled to admit there has been no statistics in the department as to the brewing interests of the country. By the aid of statistics of the census in the Department of the Interior he was enabled to collect the following facts: The number of breweries and their capacity in the different States were as follows: New York, 287 breweries; Pennsylvania, 353; Ohio, 270; Wisconsin, 223; Illinois, 202; California, 172; Michigan 148; Indiana, 144; Missouri, 126; Minnesota, 123; Iowa, 121; New Jersey, 76; Maryland, 68; Oregon, 34; Nevada, 34; Massachussetts, 33; Texas, 32; Kansas, 26; Montana, 24; Nebraska, 21; New Mexico, 9, and the other States and Territories making in all 2,862 breweries. There were on the 30th of June last year 1,585 breweries in the country under 500 pounds capacity per year, and 1,279 above 500 barrels capacity, or altogether 2,862 in the United States. Taking the whole population there was one brewery established for every 13,467 persons. The average of product of these breweries was during the year, 2,125 barrels per each establishment. There were brewed last year, 6,081,529 barrels of beer, or one barrel to every 6 33-100 person. According to the speaker's calculations the number of glasses of beer consumed by each person in the different States is given, in which he asserted that Massachusetts, consumption is as great as any State where the German element is large. According to the last census the population was 38,547,329. There will therefore, come to every person, temperance men, women and children included, seventy-eight glasses of beer or ale during the year.

The gentleman then gave the aggregate of taxes paid by the brewers of the country, which amounted in 1870 to $4,147,633, and for the last year $4,957,028.

Mr. Schade concluded by thanking the Congress for their kind attention to his address, and hoped that in the interest of true temperance the Congress would be successful in their laudible purpose to free itself from the burden of unequal taxation. He would indeed be happy if his paper, even in a small degree, contributed to that end. There is a hope for the future. King Gambrinus will soon rule supreme all over this vast country, for it has been shown that even in New England "malt and hops are not lost." The address was received with much enthusiasm, and a vote of thanks was tendered the speaker.

Mr. Lauer, then addressed the house, repeating his address of yesterday in the English language. His remarks were confined to the history of taxation on beer, and defining his position as to the government politically.

Mr. Joseph Kountz reported favorably on the petition asking to make the American Beer Brewer the official organ of the Association.

The Secretary then read the report of the Committee on Resolutions. The report embraced a preamble and some fifteen or twenty resolutions. The preamble started out as follows: "Whereas fanatics and religious hypocrites continue their open and avowed agitation for restrictive and sumptuary laws against the use of malt and fermented liquors as a beverage," &c. The resolutions favor the appointment of three brewers in each Congressional district to organize opposition to the election of all who may be opposed to them; declare the interest of the Government identical with the brewers; denounces all practices tending to defraud the revenue as inconsistent with fidelity to obligations of members of the Association; favor the efficient enforcement of the laws for collecting revenue; declare it to be the duty of the Government to foster and protect the interest of brewers; favor revision of laws relating to fermented liquors; declare efforts made to secure such revision had been unjustly slighted; assert the intention of the association to persevere in its efforts to secure revision of laws affecting their business; declare the duty on barley imported from Canada should be repealed; favor the equalizing of the tax; declare that legislation should be so moulded that malt liquors can be afforded at cheaper rates than whisky; protest against the introduction of metallic stamps.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Lauer, a Committee of Condolence was appointed to prepare a series of resolutions on the death of Mr. Eichenlaub, who died during the year.

Mr. Flintoff was called upon and addressed the house against the temperance movements and political fanatics.

The remainder of the session was occupied with routine business, and at three o'clock the congress adjourned until this morning.

The evening was spent in a pleasant manner at a grand banquet given in Turner Hall in honor of the guests by the Pittsburgh Local Brewers' Association. The affair was an exceedingly enjoyable one, and what with the healthful viands, toasting and speech-making, dancing and social courtesies, it was a delightful entertainment.

A VERY general indignation is felt among all classes of people in Germany at the unfounded assertion which has appeared in the London Times, to the effect that articles of value, belonging in the apartments occupied by the Emperor William at Versailles, had been taken, along with his baggage, to Germany. The Kreuez Zitung declares this "infamous and miserable calumny to be the most groundless, despicable, and self-evident falsehood ever published by the English press;" and adds that "it is significant as indicating the envy and fear with which the growing power of the German nation is regarded by all classes of the British people. And, of course, the English have forgotten how the summer palace of the Emperor of China was plundered by British troops."

A CURIOUS fact in regard to beetles was mentioned at a meeting of the Entomological Society of London, a few weeks since. Mr. Lewis exhibited a Chinese earthen jar, like an ordinary tobacco jar, but with a porous bottom of great thickness. These jars, it appears, are used in Pekin as the residences of large beetles, which the inhabitants keep for fighting purposes, and which are made very ferocious by being deprived for a time of all nourishment except water.

Army Reduction.

The army has been reduced to the peace establishment, and now numbers, all told, 35,284 men. There are 25 regiments of infantry, numbering 15,000 men; 10 regiments of cavalry, 10,000; 5 regiments of artillery, 3,635. These, with the engineers non-commissioned staff, &c., make up a force of 30,000 enlisted men. Then there are the employes of the Quartermaster, Commissary, Medical, and other departments, making a total force of 35,284. The surplus of officers left over after the war has gradually disappeared; the resignations of officers to enter private business have been so numerous that there is now no excess over the regulation standard.

In addition to this reform, we have another in the Revenue Department. In June, 1870, the number of Assistant Assessors was 2,400; this was reduced last January to 1,800, and on the 1st of July the whole number will be reduced to 1,400. The abolition of special taxes has rendered their employment unnecessary.
